U.S. Weighs Extension Of Viet Fighting

Sec. Rusk Explains Possibility Before Meeting Of SEATO

MANILA (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk told a closed session of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization today the United States does not completely rule out extending the war in South Viet Nam, presumably into the Communist North.

This was reported by U.S. informants after the eight-nation session. They said Rusk laid heavy emphasis on the Viet Nam war, although South Viet Nam is not a member of the mutual defense organization set up 10 years ago to halt Communist expansion in Southeast Asia.

The informants quoted Rusk as saying that a victory over the Communist guerrillas in Viet Nam is vital to the West.

The United States, Rusk said, has decided on a course of support and guidance of the South Vietnamese but he added that the United States could not completely preclude extension of the war in a situation so volatile and important to the Western world. Rusk said, however, widening of the war is not what the United States wants and is not a course that anyone would welcome.

He said there is no question that the Communist Viet Cong in Viet Nam is being controlled, supplied and directed by North Viet Nam. The Viet Cong have improved their techniques and added new capabilities, but their ability to overrun large sections of the countryside does not mean they are running the countryside, Rusk said.

New School's Rites Planned For Chester

The new $302,600 Chester Primary School will be dedicated in a public ceremony Sunday afternoon by the Hancock County Board of Education.

Charles McKinney, assistant county superintendent, said the program will be similar to one held in March for dedication of Oak Glen High School in Pughtown.

Both schools were constructed with proceeds from a $5½ million bond issue passed by county residents a few years ago.

The Chester elementary building was erected on the site of the former Chester Rolling Mill. The 16 acres of property lie in the rear of the Arner Chester Chapel and stretch to the banks of the Ohio River.

The enrollment is 312. Thayer Allison is principal. The building opened Nov. 22.

McKinney announced the dedication program will begin at 3 and there will be a guest speaker. "Open house" will be held from noon to 5 p. m. Sunday, he added.

The Knowlton Construction Co. of Bellefontaine was contractor and Kellam & Foley of Columbus were architects for the Chester building.

Talks Launched

Polish Reds Due To Back Moscow

MOSCOW (AP)—Polish Communist leaders arrived in Moscow today for talks to strengthen Premier Khrushchev in his bitter dispute with the Chinese Communists.

Polish Communist party boss Wladyslaw Gomulka said on his arrival with Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz that the Polish and Soviet Communist parties "have the same views of the tasks of the Socialist camp, of the strategy and tactics of the international movement."

Any actions directed against the unity of Communist countries "are harmful and irresponsible," Gomulka said.

The Poles support Khrushchev against Red China, but they have been reluctant to go along with a Kremlin proposal for a showdown conference of world Communist parties.

In his television speech Sunday night, Khrushchev denounced the Chinese as "splitters" of the world Communist movement who eventually want to take over its leadership. He made no mention of any world meeting of communism.

Khrushchev abandoned the Soviet Communist party's claim of dominance over world communism, saying "those times have gone, never to return."

But he said the Chinese were trying to achieve the control Stalin once exercised over the Red bloc by taking a "special course which is a blend of petty bourgeois adventurism and great-power chauvinism."

"The disruptive activities of the Chinese leaders have caused serious difficulties in the world Communist movement," Khrushchev admitted.

To deal with the problem, he called for direct meetings between Communist parties — as equals rather than teacher and pupil. He apparently has in mind the kind of direct talks he held last week with Hungarian leaders in Budapest rather than the gathering of the world's more than 90 Communist parties which Soviet ideologist Mikhail Suslov proposed.

Direct talks now begin with the Poles. The Hungarians gave Khrushchev full public support against the Chinese.

Tragedy In Switzerland

Skier Dies In Desperate Race Against Avalanche

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland (AP)—Buddy Werner, the hard-luck American ski star, lost a desperate race with an avalanche Sunday and was killed under tons of snow.

The 28-year-old Olympian was taking part in the filming of a ski fashions movie with other top skiers when the wet spring snow thundered down an Alpine slope at Samedan, a village two miles outside of this winter resort.

The avalanche also killed Barbara (Barbi) Henneberger, 23, one of West Germany's top women skiers. Fifteen others in the group dug themselves out or were freed by rescuers.

"It was a nightmare," said Fritz Wagnerberger, 27, a veteran German racer.

"We left early in the morning and chose what looked like a safe slope. Avalanches are frequent in the spring, but they rarely come down in the morning.

"We were crossing the slope in a file while the crew was filming when all of a sudden the snow gave way under our skis. It was about 10 o'clock in the morning.

"Pandemonium broke out. It was terrible. We were yelling and the screams could be heard over the thunder of the snow.

"Buddy Werner raced down in front of me trying to get away. He was a little lower down and probably thought he had a chance to race away from the slide.

"Perhaps he could have done it, who can say? He got to the bottom, but then he slipped, somersaulted and was lying in the snow as the second arm of the slide crashed right on top of him.

"I think the same happened to Barbi."

Miss Henneberger's body was found in eight feet of snow three hours after the slide. Werner's body was discovered an hour later in 10 feet. Both had suffocated.

Elsewhere in Switzerland, at least four Swiss were still missing after avalanches at Kuessnacht, in central Switzerland, and Sargans, near the Austrian border.

Werner, whose first name was Wallace, made his home in Steamboat Springs, Colo., but in the last decade he spent much of his time competing on the world's ski slopes. Although he never won an Olympic medal, he was the first American male skier to be taken seriously by the Europeans.

Jurisdictional Dispute Hits At Atomic Plant

About 200 workers at the Shippingport Atomic power plant were idled today by a strike of two craft unions employed by a construction company doing work at the plant.

William Wynn of the Atomic Energy Commission said union employes of the Catalytic Construction Co. of Philadelphia, which is doing modification work at the plant to clear the way for new reactors set up a few pickets on Route 168 early today in a jurisdictional dispute between two of the craft unions employed by the company.

Other union employes refused to cross the line. The Duquesne Light Co., which operates the plant, said the dispute involves only the construction firm and all operations and maintenance of the plant are continuing as usual.

Rail Talks Continue In Washington

Negotiators Work In Virtual Secrecy On Averting Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—In virtual secrecy, rail management and labor representatives resume issue-by-issue bargaining today a stone's throw from the White House, knowing that failure to agree by April 25 could touch off a coast-to-coast strike.

The negotiators are working under a temporary truce effected by President Johnson and under the guidance of a presidentially arranged five-man team of special mediators. The sessions began at the White House and have moved across the street to the Executive Office Building so the President can pop in and otherwise make the two sides aware of his interest.

By arrangement, White House press secretary George Reedy is the sole source of information about the bargaining and except for word that issue-by-issue bargaining was under way and that both sides were showing "a sincere desire to settle" he has been reluctant to pass on details.

It would be an "utmost exercise in futility" to try to predict an outcome, Reedy said Sunday. He did venture the view that the mediators obviously must have felt some optimism when they decided to bring the opposing parties into the same conference room.

The mediators had been shuttling from one side to the other before bringing the rail executives and brotherhood chiefs face to face Sunday afternoon. The session continued into the night.

This last-ditch round of negotiation apparently is the only possible source of solution to the tangled work rules dispute. Johnson has exhausted all presidential actions provided by existing legislation and Congress is reluctant to get entangled in the subject again.

Strike Called Off In Pennsy Job Transfer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Transport Workers Union has called off a strike against the Pennsylvania Railroad pending outcome of high level negotiations Wednesday over a job transfer dispute.

The strike, which had been set for 7 a. m. today, was called off after the railroad agreed Sunday to postpone carrying out its plan to transfer its shop operations from Columbus and Crestline to Altoona and Conway, Pa.

The transfer would involve 600 jobs here and in Crestline, said Jack Diaz, president of TWU Local 2005. The railroad had planned to transfer the jobs April 22.

Diaz said the strike would have involved the entire Pennsylvania system and 12,000 to 13,000 TWU members.

Wednesday's meeting between top union and railroad negotiators will be held in Philadelphia, Diaz said.

Discharged Employes Rehired By Laughlin's

Thirteen kilnplacers at the Homer Laughlin China Co., discharged Thursday for refusal to obey an order, were taken back today by the Newell firm.

However, a company spokesman said the 13 were returned to their jobs "with reservations of reviewing the status of one kilnplacer."

The review will be conducted by the discharge committee comprised of management and union representatives. It is set up under the contract with the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters as part of the grievance procedure, the spokesman explained.

The company had fired the men Thursday when they allegedly refused to obey a foreman's order.

Over 50 Injured

Tornadoes Kill 6 In Plain States

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Dazed survivors picked through the rubble of homes and business buildings today in the wake of tornadoes that slashed through eastern Kansas, western Missouri and southwestern Iowa.

Six persons were killed and at least 50 were injured.

Most of the twisters snaked out of thunderstorms that could be seen for miles in the late afternoon — otherwise the toll could have been greater.

Two lines of the storms bracketed Kansas City—one to the northwest, the other southeast—and rolled rapidly to the northeast.

The dead were:

Mrs. Jack L. Wilson, 24, Independence, Kan.; Warren Kenyan Sr., 43, Neosho, Mo., and his wife, Ella, all killed near Garnett, Kan.

Charles Hedger, 13, killed in a barn near Pleasant Grove, Mo.

Victor Kerns, 50, killed near his home northwest of Leeton, Mo.

Flora Eichhorst, 90, killed in her home at Yorktown, Iowa.

One twister sucked up a line of traffic on U.S. 59 five miles south of Garnett and hurled a 50,000-pound truck, a pickup truck and six cars in all directions, killing the Kenyans and Mrs. Wilson and injuring eight other persons.

"It felt like the truck was lifted up off the highway," said Stephen A. Miller, 29, of St. Joseph, Mo., who was hauling 25,000 pounds of meat to Dallas.

The pickup truck was flung a quarter-mile. The driver, Christopher Lewis, 54, Parsons, Kan., suffered a knee injury.

Right behind Miller's truck, the Kenyan car was hurled 600 feet to one side. Another landed 600 feet on the other side of the road. The cars were smashed into twisted bits of metal.

A tornado roared over Leavenworth, Kan., not quite touching down, but close enough to damage about 75 homes, smash windows in the business district and uproot many trees. Seven persons were injured there.

Tobacco barns were flattened near Weston, Mo.

Farther on, at Yorktown, a community of 146 persons in southwest Iowa, a tornado killed Mrs. Eichhorst and injured six others.

'Tom Jones' Leads

British Accent Expected At Tonight's 'Oscar' Fete

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's Oscar night tonight and the brilliant movie "Tom Jones" is expected to avenge the Boston Tea Party for Great Britain.

It will be very British at nearby Santa Monica Civic Auditorium with or without the bawdy farce which most movie people call the best movie since "Citizen Kane."

"Tom Jones" won 10 Academy Award nominations and is expected to win a goodly share. Most experts call it a cinch for best picture and best director for Tony Richardson.

Also odds-on favorite to win best actor is Albert Finney, who played the title role of the Henry Fielding classic. He will have potent competition from Sidney Poitier, the great Negro actor of "Lilies of the Field."

Others up for best actor are Richard Harris, the brutish football player of "This Sporting Life;" Rex Harrison—the one who acted while Marc (Richard Burton) Anthony and Cleopatra (Liz Taylor) wooed—and Paul Newman of "Hud."

Patricia Neal of "Hud" is the favorite among top actresses, but Hollywood likes voting on past performances.

That makes Shirley MacLaine (Irma La Douce) and Natalie Wood (Love With a Proper Stranger) potent contenders. Anyone among the actresses could win without causing an upset. Leslie Caron (The L-Shaped Room) and Rachel Roberts (This Sporting Life) are other nominees.

Competition for "Tom Jones" as best picture is "How the West was Won," "Lilies of the Field," "America, America," and "Cleopatra."

Russian Launch Hints Of New Manned Effort

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union launched a second unmanned maneuverable space station Sunday, rousing speculation it may be getting ready to attempt an orbital rendezvous by manned space craft.

The new Sputnik, Polyot-2, was launched on the third anniversary of the world's space flight by Yuri Gagarin. Polyot-1 was sent up last November.

Pair Picked For Testing Spacecraft

Vehicle Scheduled To Orbit This Year In Moon Program

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Maj. Virgil I. Grissom and Lt. Cmdr. John W. Young were selected today as the astronauts who will pilot the nation's first two-man space flight—a three-orbit Gemini mission late this year.

The back-up crew for the first manned flight of Project Gemini will be Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Capt. Thomas P. Stafford.

Gemini is the intermediate phase of the long-range training program that has an objective of placing Project Apollo astronauts on the moon within the decade.

Of the four men selected today at the Manned Spacecraft Center, the training base for astronauts, only Schirra has made an orbital flight.

Grissom made a suborbital flight of 142.1 miles downrange from Cape Kennedy Sept. 13, 1961, and Schirra followed with a six-orbit mission Oct. 3, 1962.

Young and Stafford, former test pilots, became astronaut trainees Sept. 17, 1962.

Since the completion of the one-man Mercury flights last year, Grissom has held a primary assignment as coordinator of Gemini affairs with other members of the astronaut team that now totals 29 pilots.

Schirra, now 41, is the oldest of the original seven Mercury astronauts now that Lt. Col. John Glenn has resigned from the program. Glenn is 42.

Schirra, while concentrating on the Gemini program, has been a coordinator of operations and training.

Young has specialized on the design and development of environmental control systems, survival gear, pressure suits, couches and other personal equipment. Stafford has specialized on communications, instrumentation and range integration.

Prime objectives of Gemini are to determine man's ability to function for long periods in space and the feasibility of rendezvous and docking in orbital flights.

New Protest On School Set In Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — With construction resuming at a school site that became a focal point in Cleveland's racial crisis, civil rights leaders planned another demonstration today.

It appeared the school board's downtown office building would be the target of the mass demonstration, but plans were still being worked out by United Freedom Movement leaders several hours before the start of the demonstration.

The UFM called on demonstrators to gather at 4 p. m. on the mall just off Public Square and west of the Board of Education building.

This is the hour when the board was to meet to take up the matter of setting a hearing on school construction and integration. Board President Ralph A. McAllister has indicated that hearing probably will start next week.

Construction of three new schools planned for the Glenville area on the east side would end the practice of bussing pupils from overcrowded schools in that predominantly Negro area to schools with plenty of space in predominantly white areas.

The UFM has accused the board of hastening to construct "ghetto" schools.

"It felt like the truck was lifted up off the highway," said Stephen A. Miller, 29, of St. Joseph, Mo., who was hauling 25,000 pounds of meat to Dallas.

The pickup truck was flung a quarter-mile. The driver, Christopher Lewis, 54, Parsons, Kan., suffered a knee injury.

Right behind Miller's truck, the Kenyan car was hurled 600 feet to one side. Another landed 600 feet on the other side of the road. The cars were smashed into twisted bits of metal.

A tornado roared over Leavenworth, Kan., not quite touching down, but close enough to damage about 75 homes, smash windows in the business district and uproot many trees. Seven persons were injured there.

Tobacco barns were flattened near Weston, Mo.

Farther on, at Yorktown, a community of 146 persons in southwest Iowa, a tornado killed Mrs. Eichhorst and injured six others.

'Tom Jones' Leads

British Accent Expected At Tonight's 'Oscar' Fete

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's Oscar night tonight and the brilliant movie "Tom Jones" is expected to avenge the Boston Tea Party for Great Britain.

It will be very British at nearby Santa Monica Civic Auditorium with or without the bawdy farce which most movie people call the best movie since "Citizen Kane."

"Tom Jones" won 10 Academy Award nominations and is expected to win a goodly share. Most experts call it a cinch for best picture and best director for Tony Richardson.

Also odds-on favorite to win best actor is Albert Finney, who played the title role of the Henry Fielding classic. He will have potent competition from Sidney Poitier, the great Negro actor of "Lilies of the Field."

Others up for best actor are Richard Harris, the brutish football player of "This Sporting Life;" Rex Harrison—the one who acted while Marc (Richard Burton) Anthony and Cleopatra (Liz Taylor) wooed—and Paul Newman of "Hud."

Patricia Neal of "Hud" is the favorite among top actresses, but Hollywood likes voting on past performances.

That makes Shirley MacLaine (Irma La Douce) and Natalie Wood (Love With a Proper Stranger) potent contenders. Anyone among the actresses could win without causing an upset. Leslie Caron (The L-Shaped Room) and Rachel Roberts (This Sporting Life) are other nominees.

Competition for "Tom Jones" as best picture is "How the West was Won," "Lilies of the Field," "America, America," and "Cleopatra."

Russian Launch Hints Of New Manned Effort

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union launched a second unmanned maneuverable space station Sunday, rousing speculation it may be getting ready to attempt an orbital rendezvous by manned space craft.

The new Sputnik, Polyot-2, was launched on the third anniversary of the world's space flight by Yuri Gagarin. Polyot-1 was sent up last November.

Pair Picked For Testing Spacecraft

Vehicle Scheduled To Orbit This Year In Moon Program

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Maj. Virgil I. Grissom and Lt. Cmdr. John W. Young were selected today as the astronauts who will pilot the nation's first two-man space flight—a three-orbit Gemini mission late this year.

The back-up crew for the first manned flight of Project Gemini will be Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Capt. Thomas P. Stafford.

Gemini is the intermediate phase of the long-range training program that has an objective of placing Project Apollo astronauts on the moon within the decade.

Of the four men selected today at the Manned Spacecraft Center, the training base for astronauts, only Schirra has made an orbital flight.

Grissom made a suborbital flight of 142.1 miles downrange from Cape Kennedy Sept. 13, 1961, and Schirra followed with a six-orbit mission Oct. 3, 1962.

Young and Stafford, former test pilots, became astronaut trainees Sept. 17, 1962.

Since the completion of the one-man Mercury flights last year, Grissom has held a primary assignment as coordinator of Gemini affairs with other members of the astronaut team that now totals 29 pilots.

Schirra, now 41, is the oldest of the original seven Mercury astronauts now that Lt. Col. John Glenn has resigned from the program. Glenn is 42.

Schirra, while concentrating on the Gemini program, has been a coordinator of operations and training.

Young has specialized on the design and development of environmental control systems, survival gear, pressure suits, couches and other personal equipment. Stafford has specialized on communications, instrumentation and range integration.

Prime objectives of Gemini are to determine man's ability to function for long periods in space and the feasibility of rendezvous and docking in orbital flights.

New Protest On School Set In Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — With construction resuming at a school site that became a focal point in Cleveland's racial crisis, civil rights leaders planned another demonstration today.

It appeared the school board's downtown office building would be the target of the mass demonstration, but plans were still being worked out by United Freedom Movement leaders several hours before the start of the demonstration.

The UFM called on demonstrators to gather at 4 p. m. on the mall just off Public Square and west of the Board of Education building.

This is the hour when the board was to meet to take up the matter of setting a hearing on school construction and integration. Board President Ralph A. McAllister has indicated that hearing probably will start next week.

Construction of three new schools planned for the Glenville area on the east side would end the practice of bussing pupils from overcrowded schools in that predominantly Negro area to schools with plenty of space in predominantly white areas.

The UFM has accused the board of hastening to construct "ghetto" schools.

Where Did Pay Hike Go?

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Boosts in take-home pay from the federal income tax cut haven't shown up in retail sales as quickly as expected. Or have they? The official figures say no. But this time the statistics are even more complicated than usual and more subject to tricky interpretations.

Bankers suspect many citizens just added to their savings in March while deciding what to do with the windfall that began showing up in pay checks. Others think the approaching income tax settlement deadline was a deterrent to spending.

Merchants aren't sure. They point out that the official figures of the Department of Commerce showing a drop in retail sales from February had to be adjusted this March to seasonal variations that may conceal part of the story.

Others think that comparisons with February spending are further complicated by that month's most unusual shopping-day pattern (five Saturdays) and by a possible psychological quirk of consumers who spent more than usual this February because of the expected take-home pay increases.

The Department of Commerce says that seasonally adjusted the March retail store sales were $21.1 billion, down 1 per cent from the February record. This still put March 4 per cent ahead of a year ago, but many had expected greater things of the month this time.

An early Easter may have affected the drop the Commerce Department reports in sales of apparel and department stores. But it may have had less connection with the drop of 4 per cent in the volume of durable goods, with automotive and lumber and building materials dealers accounting for most of this. Larger sales by food stores were the brightest feature of March.

Perhaps some merchants were counting too much on the stimulus of more take-home pay. Bankers note that in the past consumers often have taken a while to change spending habits after any sudden rise in income. The bankers say that usually a large part of any windfall goes at first into savings.

But if March didn't meet all of the high hopes for it, the substantial gains for the first quarter as a whole feed the belief that the first half of the year will set records.

Newell Driver Jailed On Wellsville Charge

Alonzo Knox of Jefferson St., Newell, was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to three days in jail for driving while under the influence of alcohol at a hearing Saturday before Mayor William Daugherty of Wellsville.

Knox was arrested Friday night after a three-car collision at 9th and Main Sts., Wellsville.

Police said his car hit the rear of a parked auto and drove it into the rear of another parked vehicle.

More Chosen Delegates In GOP Voting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tempo of delegate selection for the Republican National Convention is speeding up. Thirty-four were chosen over the weekend and at least 73 will be picked this week.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, who now has 109 first-ballot votes in eight states, and Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine will test their popularity in Tuesday's Illinois presidential preference primary.

Their names are the only ones printed in the preference spot on the Republican ballots.

Results are not binding on delegates to the national convention. Forty-eight district delegates will be chosen Tuesday, with 10 at-large delegates to be picked in the Illinois Republican state convention next month.

Of the 78 persons running for the Illinois GOP delegate posts, 34 favor Goldwater, 3 are for former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and one is for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. The rest told The Associated Press they were uncommitted or they made no replies.

Three states complete their selection of delegates to the Republican convention at state conclaves Saturday — Arizona, Kansas and Louisiana.

Goldwater is expected to win Arizona's 16 votes. He already has 16 Louisiana district delegates and the four at-large delegates to be named Saturday may be instructed to vote for him, too.

Boy Released On Probation In Auto Theft

An 18 - year - old Pittsburgh youth was given a suspended 90-day jail term today by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff after pleading guilty to a charge of driving an auto without the owner's consent.

Ronald G. Maurer was ordered to pay the costs of $7.50 and to comply with four probations terms laid down by Judge Chertoff.

They are that he complete his schooling, attend church regularly, have his pastor send a letter to the court each week detailing his church attendance, and be in his home by 9 each night.

Maurer and a 16-year-old companion were taken into custody Friday afternoon in McConnelsville, Ohio, by the Morgan County sheriff's office in a car owned by Regis Watters of John St. Watters had reported the auto stolen Thursday night.

Police said Juvenile Officer James Miller took custody of the 16-year-old and will turn him over to Pennsylvania authorities.

Because Maurer's parents are deaf mutes, the judge and Asst. Solicitor Richard J. Clark had to confer with them through the defendant in a pre-trial hearing in the judge's chambers.

"It was a very stupid thing you did," Judge Chertoff told the youth when he was arraigned.

"You put your life in jeopardy and the mark could follow you for the rest of your life.

"Through the consideration of the police, the solicitor and the court, the charge now is a misdemeanor and it won't follow you for the rest of your life. You can become a useful citizen," the judge told Maurer.

Negotiations Resume In Stoppage At Amvit

Negotiations got underway at 10:30 this morning in the week-old strike of about 150 employes of the American Vitrified Product Co.'s East End plant.

The employes are members of Local 849, United Brick and Clay Workers. Joe Daniels of Globe St. is president. Paul Calhoun Jr. is plant superintendent. The strike began April 6 on issues of plant rules and money matters.

A master contract was signed April 4 by the United Brick and Clay Workers and representatives of clay products plants in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Indiana, but it left open to each individual local the task of determining plant rules and in some cases the wage agreements.

son, the names and addresses of each.

"5. By stating each place where and time when I am alleged to have accepted money."

The letter was drafted by Hephner's legal counsel, Atty. Ben Berman of East Liverpool and Atty. Frank W. Springer of East Palestine.

The attorneys said this is similar to a "bill of particulars" in a criminal case, but as this is a Civil Service action, it cannot be rightfully termed as such.

Mayor Daugherty removed Hephner from office last Tuesday morning. In a letter he presented the chief, the mayor said the action was being taken because of "misconduct in office, namely your acceptance of money given for the purpose of using your position in granting favors to the giver in violation of your sworn duty as a police office."

The mayor used the words "we" and "us" in the letter, but it carried only his signature.

The mayor says he has an affidavit showing the chief has accepted money. He has refused to elaborate or reveal any other information.

Hephner has continually denied the charges. He has filed an appeal with the Wellsville Civil Service Commission.

More Chosen Delegates In GOP Voting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tempo of delegate selection for the Republican National Convention is speeding up. Thirty-four were chosen over the weekend and at least 73 will be picked this week.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, who now has 109 first-ballot votes in eight states, and Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine will test their popularity in Tuesday's Illinois presidential preference primary.

Their names are the only ones printed in the preference spot on the Republican ballots.

Results are not binding on delegates to the national convention. Forty-eight district delegates will be chosen Tuesday, with 10 at-large delegates to be picked in the Illinois Republican state convention next month.

Of the 78 persons running for the Illinois GOP delegate posts, 34 favor Goldwater, 3 are for former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and one is for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. The rest told The Associated Press they were uncommitted or they made no replies.

Three states complete their selection of delegates to the Republican convention at state conclaves Saturday — Arizona, Kansas and Louisiana.

Goldwater is expected to win Arizona's 16 votes. He already has 16 Louisiana district delegates and the four at-large delegates to be named Saturday may be instructed to vote for him, too.

Boy Released On Probation In Auto Theft

An 18 - year - old Pittsburgh youth was given a suspended 90-day jail term today by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff after pleading guilty to a charge of driving an auto without the owner's consent.

Ronald G. Maurer was ordered to pay the costs of $7.50 and to comply with four probations terms laid down by Judge Chertoff.

They are that he complete his schooling, attend church regularly, have his pastor send a letter to the court each week detailing his church attendance, and be in his home by 9 each night.

Maurer and a 16-year-old companion were taken into custody Friday afternoon in McConnelsville, Ohio, by the Morgan County sheriff's office in a car owned by Regis Watters of John St. Watters had reported the auto stolen Thursday night.

Police said Juvenile Officer James Miller took custody of the 16-year-old and will turn him over to Pennsylvania authorities.

Because Maurer's parents are deaf mutes, the judge and Asst. Solicitor Richard J. Clark had to confer with them through the defendant in a pre-trial hearing in the judge's chambers.

"It was a very stupid thing you did," Judge Chertoff told the youth when he was arraigned.

"You put your life in jeopardy and the mark could follow you for the rest of your life.

"Through the consideration of the police, the solicitor and the court, the charge now is a misdemeanor and it won't follow you for the rest of your life. You can become a useful citizen," the judge told Maurer.

Negotiations Resume In Stoppage At Amvit

Negotiations got underway at 10:30 this morning in the week-old strike of about 150 employes of the American Vitrified Product Co.'s East End plant.

The employes are members of Local 849, United Brick and Clay Workers. Joe Daniels of Globe St. is president. Paul Calhoun Jr. is plant superintendent. The strike began April 6 on issues of plant rules and money matters.

A master contract was signed April 4 by the United Brick and Clay Workers and representatives of clay products plants in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Indiana, but it left open to each individual local the task of determining plant rules and in some cases the wage agreements.

son, the names and addresses of each.

"5. By stating each place where and time when I am alleged to have accepted money."

The letter was drafted by Hephner's legal counsel, Atty. Ben Berman of East Liverpool and Atty. Frank W. Springer of East Palestine.

The attorneys said this is similar to a "bill of particulars" in a criminal case, but as this is a Civil Service action, it cannot be rightfully termed as such.

Mayor Daugherty removed Hephner from office last Tuesday morning. In a letter he presented the chief, the mayor said the action was being taken because of "misconduct in office, namely your acceptance of money given for the purpose of using your position in granting favors to the giver in violation of your sworn duty as a police office."

The mayor used the words "we" and "us" in the letter, but it carried only his signature.

The mayor says he has an affidavit showing the chief has accepted money. He has refused to elaborate or reveal any other information.

Hephner has continually denied the charges. He has filed an appeal with the Wellsville Civil Service Commission.

Arrested Friday at 6:26 p. m. on Walnut St., Taylor was accused of stealing two cartons of cigarettes valued at $5 from the A. & P. Supermarket.

We Know How It Is

One of the news subjects we wish there could be a blackout on just before April 15 is public officials who have evaded federal income taxes.

Some of these scofflaws are highly placed — men expected to be exemplars of good citizenship. The latest malefactors are apparently going to be a pair of jurists in Oklahoma.

Indictments have been returned by a federal grand jury naming Oklahoma Supreme Court Justice Earl Welch and supernumerary Judge N. S. Corn. The evading payment of $13,462 in federal income taxes from 1957 through 1961. Judge Corn was indicted for evading $11,763 from 1957 through 1959.

THIS IS depressing for all the rest of us just before the April 15 deadline, while we are scratching together the money to make our peace with Caesar on the Potomac.

It is depressing while we are subtracting line 12 from line 11, whichever is the smaller after it has been divided by whatever is left from line 5 after it has been divided by line 2, multiplied by line 3 and subtracted from 3.1416, provided the latter is not greater than the total of the birthdays that have been celebrated by all dependents over age 16 and still unmarried — or however the jargon goes. See Pg. 4.

We don't even know how to avoid paying more than we owe, thanks to the complicated formula for getting the feathers off the goose.

TAX EVASION is something we associate with racketeers, shysters, crooks and funny shufflers. True, we've been tempted to ditch the whole nerve-jangling mess, too, but we never will. We wouldn't even have the gall to trim down what we think we owe — another thing that depresses us when we hear about six- and seven-digit citizens who trim things down until they pay less income taxes than the littlest of the little people.

Headache In Pennsylvania

The task of reapportionment of state electoral districts is inevitably a difficult one, tangled in political conflict and the rural - urban tug - of - war, but Pennsylvania has ended up with a real headache in its particular re-districting problem.

It is probable, according to many observers, that the state will hold its scheduled April 28 legislative primary election under the terms of the new apportionment bill, despite last week's Federal Court ruling the bill is invalid.

The court declared the new law violated the equal rights provision of the U. S. Constitution, even though it complied with the state constitution. Already political leaders are calling for an amendment process to the state constitution, starting with a special legislative session and following with a state referendum.

If state authorities are granted a stay of last week's ruling by the Court, the April 28 election will be held. If not, some widespread confusion will result, with the possibility of party committee selection of nominees for the 210 House and 25 Senate seats.

The Supreme Court within a month is expected to hand down decisions concerning state apportionments which will effect Pennsylvania, comprehensively clarifying some long - standing controversies on such redistricting in six cases.

In any event, Pennsylvania legislators are going to have to take another hard look at their re-districting problem and the state's Constitution.

It is apparent the Keystone State faces a lengthy and involved process in remedying the Legislature's failure for over 30 years to meet the state constitution's requirements for fair representation of its citizens.

Liniment Logic

We suspect there are a lot of sore muscles in the district today, what with the pleasant weekend weather drawing many householders to their lawn and home duties.

The winter damage has been surveyed by most, grounds raked, fertilizer spread, plans for the garden mapped out, home improvement projects discussed, spring activities debated.

These undertakings are for many a true joy and satisfaction, for others a challenge, for still others they are boring chores.

But proper maintenance of grounds and home or providing improvements, if not a hobby or happy tasks, are necessary if only to protect one's investment in property.

This week's Home Show in the East End, scheduled to open Wednesday will offer the householder a lot of ideas on new and more convenient ways to follow his hobby, meet his challenge or solve his chore problems.

Try some liniment on those muscles, and make up your mind to attend the Home Show to see if there's not a better way to start that spring project, outdoors or in.

Uncle Sam Vs. Paper Tiger

Unlike the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, which has just marked its 15th anniversary, the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization never has been taken seriously.

NATO's usefulness has been the fact the Soviet Union took it seriously. That is not true of SEATO, whose Council of Ministers will meet this week in Manila, with Secretary of State Rusk in attendance.

SEATO was a lie in nomenclature, to start with. Of its eight members — the United States, Britain, France, Pakistan, Australia, New Zealand, Thailand, and the Philippines — only the last two are really Southeast Asian countries.

SEATO, like the equally amorphous Central Treaty Organization, was midwifed by the late John Foster Dulles, but has never functioned in the way he intended. The treaty was signed at a meeting in Manila, Sept. 6-8, 1954, creating a vehicle for economic and military cooperation among the signatories and for mutual assistance in the event of armed attack or territorial violations.

A special protocol to the SEATO pact included Cambodia, Laos, and Viet Nam in the area under its protection. Laos was removed from the protective umbrella by the 1962 Geneva agreement. Differences over policy among the United States, Britain, and France kept SEATO from ever becoming an Asian NATO.

Dulles talked of "binding" SEATO's armed forces with the strong points of Taiwan and South Korea as three fingers of one hand muscled to the palm of U.S. nuclear power in the Pacific.

But the British cared little for Taiwan and South Korea.

The French, after virtually withdrawing from their former Asian colonial empire, have turned about-face, recognized Red China, and made overtures to Hanoi.

The United States continues to carry the full weight of the hot war in Viet Nam. The truth is that no one, not even U.S. leaders, believes SEATO intervention in South Viet Nam would be practical.

SEATO is a "paper tiger." If the Philippines and Siamese (Thailand) governments want help, they will ask for it from the United States.

It Scares Us

By Truman Twill

Nothing could leave me colder than the guess by a British anthropologist that modern man evolved from creatures whose fossil remains he found in East Africa.

This kind of deductive reasoning is crazy.

It gives people something to talk about. But the dangerous thing about it is taking it seriously.

Is Dr. Louis S. B. Leakey, who reports this latest discovery, competent to tell us what happened a couple million years ago?

He has a treasure trove of old bones from which he has constructed postulations that he claims "shatter our whole concept of man." This comes about, he explains, because his bones prove man evolved from a creature that lived in East Central Africa nearly two million years ago. Fancy that.

THE TROUBLE IS, our remote ancestors had no idea we'd be curious about them. Except for Egyptians mummefied and buried in tombs that kept their remains intact, no one ever gave serious thought to anthropologists trying to reconstruct the ancient past. Everything was left to chance.

There's a question whether anything ever can be done about this. Even with modern technology, it would be impossible to establish a link with the future that would last longer than a few thousand years.

Nearly everything man has done on earth will be obliterated in less than another 5,000 years, which — as time is measured — is only a stutter in the endless pageant of world history.

It is ridiculous for old bone collectors, no matter how learned, to crow that they have settled something important by discovering a few scraps of fossilized evidence.

THIS IS NOT intended to take anything away from anthropologists.

They all do the best they can with the limited means at hand — their own intelligence. They always run up against one another when they are at cross-purposes, as they always are.

That is all right, too, as long as we understand their problem, which is how to explain what has been lost in the mists of unfathomable antiquity so long that the inscrutable Sphinx is a contemporary sculpture.

It would be a service to mankind a million years hence if we could preserve specimens of ourselves. But we can't, so anthropologists will have to rely on luck.

They may run across some old bones from a gorilla that died in a traveling circus in Far-Out, Wyo., and deduce this was homo sapiens circa 2000 — and they may be right. It scares me.

Korea Issue Applies To World Today

By DAVID LAWRENCE

The controversy again emerging over the obstacles faced by Gen. MacArthur in trying to win the war in Korea 13 years ago is just as important today as it was in April and May of 1951. For when an international armed force is mobilized to maintain peace anywhere in the world, the United Nations appears to have no effective system that will enable its agent — the armed forces of the United States in the case of Korea — to win the victory using the normal methods of military strategy. As a consequence, American lives were sacrificed in Korea, and Red China was not punished for its aggression.

David Lawrence

When the crisis did arise in Korea in 1951, American forces were held back from winning the victory because our European allies — Great Britain and France — did not wish to take the risk involved in pushing the war vigorously against the Red Chinese.

Gen. MacArthur's disappointment that he was not permitted to carry out his plan to win the war was the direct outgrowth of a situation on which, while in the Far East, he was not adequately informed. It was a contest going on behind the scenes in and around the United Nations itself.

THE WEAKNESS in trying to adjust military facts to diplomatic theories continues to exist today.

The U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff here had unanimously supported Gen. MacArthur's recommendation that the Chinese air bases in Manchuria, north of the Yalu River, should be bombed.

In fact, the joint chiefs, 90 days before Gen. MacArthur was relieved of his command in Korea, expiicitly approved the entire military plan he espoused — namely, to use the Chinese Nationalist troops and some American divisions to impose a military and economic blockade against the common enemy and to permit air reconnaissance over Manchuria and China.

As for an economic boycott—a problem somewhat similar to the one that arose recently in the Cuban situation — it so happens that countries which were members of the Security Council itself engaged in trading with the enemy during the Korean War.

It was disclosed early in 1951 that 120,000 tons of rubber had been sent to the Communists through the British port of Hong Kong after the war began in June 1950 — four times what was shipped in 1949 through British sources.

Oil, steel, aluminum, electrical equipment, copper wire and other strategic materials also were being shipped to the Chinese Communists.

WHEN GEN. MacARTHUR testified before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees on May 4, 1951, he made this significant statement:

"One of the great weaknesses of the United Nations effort as a United Nations effort there is that it was not well balanced. Almost the entire burden of blood and effort and money is confined to two countries—the native country of the Koreans, and ourselves. . . .

"The relativity of authority in making international decisions should be based in some degree upon the responsibilities of the agents that carry it out. If one nation carries 90 per cent of the effort, it's quite inappropriate that nations that carry only a small fraction of the efforts and the responsibility should exercise undue authority upon the decisions that are made."

The most sensational proof of how the United States government was forced to accede to the Allied wishes is also to be found in the testimony before the Senate committees which revealed that the United States Department of State on March 20, 1951, had requested Gen. MacArthur to agree to deploy his troops in such a way as to avoid "any advance with major forces north of the 38th Parallel."

He was instructed to "permit sufficient freedom of action for the next few weeks to provide security for U.N. forces and maintain contact with enemy," so as to give time "to determine diplomatic reactions and permit new negotiations that may develop."

This was the beginning of the appeasement and compromise in Korea — the acceptance of an armistice that has to this day not been followed up by the signing of any peace treaty.

THE SOCIALIST Labor government was in power in Great Britain at the time when the trading with the enemy of the U.N. was going on. In the British Parliament, the "left wing" of the Labor party even introduced a motion in the House of Commons calling for an expression of "no confidence" in Gen. MacArthur.

Several days before Gen. MacArthur was relieved of his command, this correspondent wrote in a dispatch that President Truman was being urged to reprimand the general and that demands for this action were coming from London particularly.

Gen. MacArthur had publicly appealed to the United Nations for military help. He had asked for reinforcements again and again, to no avail. He sought the right to bombard the Communist bases from which the Chinese were coming to attack his forces, but the British publicly denounced him — and kept on trading with the enemy.

A general election is to be held in Great Britain this autumn, and undoubtedly the foreign policy of the British Labor party, as revealed in the campaign, will be watched with much concern on this side of the Atlantic in view of the record made by the laborites in the Korean war.

Man Does Not Live By Goulash Alone

Union's Travel Pay Stalls Moonport Project

By VICTOR RIESEL

None of the 29 spacemen who will be riding the rockets to the moon in the second U.S. astronaut program are demanding special travel time pay for their trips to the stars. But earthly unionized iron workers have just stalled the building of the Apollo man - to - the moon blast-off center for days because they wanted special travel time pay for the trip from their homes to the Meritt Island Moonport.

Victor Riesel

To get this special travel time, plus wage increases and high welfare benefits, members of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, Local 402, struck the $63 million Merritt Island project on April 1.

No April Fool's jest, this. By refusing to go on the job they also crippled work on the Air Force's advance solid and liquid fuel Titan-3 rockets which will lift special sky platforms and laboratories into space.

THUS LOCAL 475 Iron Workers defied the Army Corps of Engineers; the Air Force; an angry White House; a hard-working Federal Mediation Service, headed by William E. Simkin; the President's Missile Sties Labor Commission, directed by fair minded specialist Kulius Kuczma, and national leaders of the Building and Construction Trades Dept., AF,-CIO.

The Air Force told the strikers that they were affecting vital defense projects that the situation was "critical" and the work "crucial." The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) warned that the Apollo plans were being hurt by the danger of serious delays. But the men stayed out for eight days—and it took some time to get construction work back to normal upon their return.

Basic here is what the local unionists, who work on the central vertical moon shot assembly building and three other vital structures, violated what was supposedly an absolute no-strike pledge made in 1961. Union leaders had then given their word they would not take their men off these critical jobs.

Yet when the Iron Workers' contract expired on April 1, they went out. This, in turn, forced hundreds of others off the job because they depended on the iron workers' preliminary steel girder work.

WHAT THE unionists wanted was $3.50 a day, across-the-board, premium travel time, regardless of the distance they had to go each morning and afernoon to get to and from Merritt Island. For a five-day week this comes to $17.50 for each of the 475 iron workers. It is, in effect, a raise in pay since many of the men live quite nearby. Many drive in car pools, so the expense is split among four or five men.

In any case, contractors there saw little reason for such sizable payments to a union membership which never had had such a clause in the contract.

Furthermore, the Iron Workers do right well on their basic pay. Until April 1 they received $4.21 cents an hour average pay for a 40-hour week. This goes to more than $6 on some days and to almost $9 an hour for double time. Now this basic rate will go up under new wage agreements.

In addition, there will be increased welfare benefits.

Thus, the wage-travel time and fringe benefit package will run to well over $200 a week for the first 40 hours.

NOT SATISFIED with this, the Iron Workers' local also fought the contractors' demand for a three-year contract. The employers wanted a long period of peace. The union, however, insisted on a two-year term, so it could ask for more increases in a shorter time.

This is business as usual unionism. This appears to have become the vogue at the $450 million Cape Kennedy-Merritt Island moon and defense projects, of which the Apollo operation is just a part.

At the same time as the Iron Workers struck in defiance of the Pentagon and NASA, a small union called the United Plant Guard Workers of America threw up picket lines which at one point kept out some 2,500 space workers.

The guards, who are hired to patrol Cape Kennedy, wanted to extend their jurisdiction to nearby Merritt Island where the Wackenhut Corp. had been hiring new men to protect the Moon port. The company had previously offered to hold an election to determine whether its new guards wanted to join the union. But the United Plant Guards turned this down and threw up pickets.

FINALLY THE COURTS and the National Labor Relations Board stepped in. An election was held. The vote was 36-5 against the union. The new men just did not want to join. But this could not recapture the time lost when thousands of men respected the union guards' picket line and stayed out in violation of the missile site's no-strike pledge.

There is no estimate yet of the exact time and money lost by the government because of the pressure of these small unions. It will be considerable, I'm told.

But certainly all labor has lost prestige because of these strikes. Who will blame the public if it now believes that a no-strike pledge is not worth the parchment on which it is written.

Fabulous Spectacle

By Francis Stilley

NEW YORK

It's a billion-dollar show.

The 1964-65 New York World's Fair which opens April 22 will be an expensive and lavish spectacle.

Attendance originally was estimated at 70 million admissions for the two seasons of operation. But now, with 28 million tickets already sold, there are predictions that attendance may reach 100 million.

It will be a mile-square panorama of the wonders of yesterday, today and tomorrow, blending together achievements of science, education, religion, art, philosophy, music and culture.

The visitor will travel back through millions of years of the earth's history and peer into the far future. And he will see firsthand the best of what the world has to offer today in exhibits from around the world.

Theme of the giant exposition—four years in the making—is "Peace Through Understanding."

About 60 foreign countries will have pavilions or displays featuring their arts, crafts, cuisine and culture.

From the United States, about half the 50 states are represented, many with extensive displays and shows. The federal government, with one of the largest shows on the grounds, will have a sweeping variety of things to see and do—including a "you are there" journey through the sights and sounds of American history.

Some astonishing spectacles have been created by the giants of American commercial enterprise—General Motors, General Electric, Bell Telephone, Ford, Eastman Kodak, Du Pont.

So extensive are their shows and displays that the visitor can spend the better part of a half day viewing each.

The most spectacular parts are arranged in the form of tours which last 12 to 15 minutes. These may be viewed from moving chairs or vehicles which create a feeling of almost personal and private tours.

We Know How It Is

One of the news subjects we wish there could be a blackout on just before April 15 is public officials who have evaded federal income taxes.

Some of these scofflaws are highly placed — men expected to be exemplars of good citizenship. The latest malefactors are apparently going to be a pair of jurists in Oklahoma.

Indictments have been returned by a federal grand jury naming Oklahoma Supreme Court Justice Earl Welch and supernumerary Judge N. S. Corn. The evading payment of $13,462 in federal income taxes from 1957 through 1961. Judge Corn was indicted for evading $11,763 from 1957 through 1959.

THIS IS depressing for all the rest of us just before the April 15 deadline, while we are scratching together the money to make our peace with Caesar on the Potomac.

It is depressing while we are subtracting line 12 from line 11, whichever is the smaller after it has been divided by whatever is left from line 5 after it has been divided by line 2, multiplied by line 3 and subtracted from 3.1416, provided the latter is not greater than the total of the birthdays that have been celebrated by all dependents over age 16 and still unmarried — or however the jargon goes. See Pg. 4.

We don't even know how to avoid paying more than we owe, thanks to the complicated formula for getting the feathers off the goose.

TAX EVASION is something we associate with racketeers, shysters, crooks and funny shufflers. True, we've been tempted to ditch the whole nerve-jangling mess, too, but we never will. We wouldn't even have the gall to trim down what we think we owe — another thing that depresses us when we hear about six- and seven-digit citizens who trim things down until they pay less income taxes than the littlest of the little people.

Headache In Pennsylvania

The task of reapportionment of state electoral districts is inevitably a difficult one, tangled in political conflict and the rural - urban tug - of - war, but Pennsylvania has ended up with a real headache in its particular re-districting problem.

It is probable, according to many observers, that the state will hold its scheduled April 28 legislative primary election under the terms of the new apportionment bill, despite last week's Federal Court ruling the bill is invalid.

The court declared the new law violated the equal rights provision of the U. S. Constitution, even though it complied with the state constitution. Already political leaders are calling for an amendment process to the state constitution, starting with a special legislative session and following with a state referendum.

If state authorities are granted a stay of last week's ruling by the Court, the April 28 election will be held. If not, some widespread confusion will result, with the possibility of party committee selection of nominees for the 210 House and 25 Senate seats.

The Supreme Court within a month is expected to hand down decisions concerning state apportionments which will effect Pennsylvania, comprehensively clarifying some long - standing controversies on such redistricting in six cases.

In any event, Pennsylvania legislators are going to have to take another hard look at their re-districting problem and the state's Constitution.

It is apparent the Keystone State faces a lengthy and involved process in remedying the Legislature's failure for over 30 years to meet the state constitution's requirements for fair representation of its citizens.

Liniment Logic

We suspect there are a lot of sore muscles in the district today, what with the pleasant weekend weather drawing many householders to their lawn and home duties.

The winter damage has been surveyed by most, grounds raked, fertilizer spread, plans for the garden mapped out, home improvement projects discussed, spring activities debated.

These undertakings are for many a true joy and satisfaction, for others a challenge, for still others they are boring chores.

But proper maintenance of grounds and home or providing improvements, if not a hobby or happy tasks, are necessary if only to protect one's investment in property.

This week's Home Show in the East End, scheduled to open Wednesday will offer the householder a lot of ideas on new and more convenient ways to follow his hobby, meet his challenge or solve his chore problems.

Try some liniment on those muscles, and make up your mind to attend the Home Show to see if there's not a better way to start that spring project, outdoors or in.

Uncle Sam Vs. Paper Tiger

Unlike the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, which has just marked its 15th anniversary, the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization never has been taken seriously.

NATO's usefulness has been the fact the Soviet Union took it seriously. That is not true of SEATO, whose Council of Ministers will meet this week in Manila, with Secretary of State Rusk in attendance.

SEATO was a lie in nomenclature, to start with. Of its eight members — the United States, Britain, France, Pakistan, Australia, New Zealand, Thailand, and the Philippines — only the last two are really Southeast Asian countries.

SEATO, like the equally amorphous Central Treaty Organization, was midwifed by the late John Foster Dulles, but has never functioned in the way he intended. The treaty was signed at a meeting in Manila, Sept. 6-8, 1954, creating a vehicle for economic and military cooperation among the signatories and for mutual assistance in the event of armed attack or territorial violations.

A special protocol to the SEATO pact included Cambodia, Laos, and Viet Nam in the area under its protection. Laos was removed from the protective umbrella by the 1962 Geneva agreement. Differences over policy among the United States, Britain, and France kept SEATO from ever becoming an Asian NATO.

Dulles talked of "binding" SEATO's armed forces with the strong points of Taiwan and South Korea as three fingers of one hand muscled to the palm of U.S. nuclear power in the Pacific.

But the British cared little for Taiwan and South Korea.

The French, after virtually withdrawing from their former Asian colonial empire, have turned about-face, recognized Red China, and made overtures to Hanoi.

The United States continues to carry the full weight of the hot war in Viet Nam. The truth is that no one, not even U.S. leaders, believes SEATO intervention in South Viet Nam would be practical.

SEATO is a "paper tiger." If the Philippines and Siamese (Thailand) governments want help, they will ask for it from the United States.

It Scares Us

By Truman Twill

Nothing could leave me colder than the guess by a British anthropologist that modern man evolved from creatures whose fossil remains he found in East Africa.

This kind of deductive reasoning is crazy.

It gives people something to talk about. But the dangerous thing about it is taking it seriously.

Is Dr. Louis S. B. Leakey, who reports this latest discovery, competent to tell us what happened a couple million years ago?

He has a treasure trove of old bones from which he has constructed postulations that he claims "shatter our whole concept of man." This comes about, he explains, because his bones prove man evolved from a creature that lived in East Central Africa nearly two million years ago. Fancy that.

THE TROUBLE IS, our remote ancestors had no idea we'd be curious about them. Except for Egyptians mummefied and buried in tombs that kept their remains intact, no one ever gave serious thought to anthropologists trying to reconstruct the ancient past. Everything was left to chance.

There's a question whether anything ever can be done about this. Even with modern technology, it would be impossible to establish a link with the future that would last longer than a few thousand years.

Nearly everything man has done on earth will be obliterated in less than another 5,000 years, which — as time is measured — is only a stutter in the endless pageant of world history.

It is ridiculous for old bone collectors, no matter how learned, to crow that they have settled something important by discovering a few scraps of fossilized evidence.

THIS IS NOT intended to take anything away from anthropologists.

They all do the best they can with the limited means at hand — their own intelligence. They always run up against one another when they are at cross-purposes, as they always are.

That is all right, too, as long as we understand their problem, which is how to explain what has been lost in the mists of unfathomable antiquity so long that the inscrutable Sphinx is a contemporary sculpture.

It would be a service to mankind a million years hence if we could preserve specimens of ourselves. But we can't, so anthropologists will have to rely on luck.

They may run across some old bones from a gorilla that died in a traveling circus in Far-Out, Wyo., and deduce this was homo sapiens circa 2000 — and they may be right. It scares me.

Korea Issue Applies To World Today

By DAVID LAWRENCE

The controversy again emerging over the obstacles faced by Gen. MacArthur in trying to win the war in Korea 13 years ago is just as important today as it was in April and May of 1951. For when an international armed force is mobilized to maintain peace anywhere in the world, the United Nations appears to have no effective system that will enable its agent — the armed forces of the United States in the case of Korea — to win the victory using the normal methods of military strategy. As a consequence, American lives were sacrificed in Korea, and Red China was not punished for its aggression.

David Lawrence

When the crisis did arise in Korea in 1951, American forces were held back from winning the victory because our European allies — Great Britain and France — did not wish to take the risk involved in pushing the war vigorously against the Red Chinese.

Gen. MacArthur's disappointment that he was not permitted to carry out his plan to win the war was the direct outgrowth of a situation on which, while in the Far East, he was not adequately informed. It was a contest going on behind the scenes in and around the United Nations itself.

THE WEAKNESS in trying to adjust military facts to diplomatic theories continues to exist today.

The U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff here had unanimously supported Gen. MacArthur's recommendation that the Chinese air bases in Manchuria, north of the Yalu River, should be bombed.

In fact, the joint chiefs, 90 days before Gen. MacArthur was relieved of his command in Korea, explicitly approved the entire military plan he espoused — namely, to use the Chinese Nationalist troops and some American divisions to impose a military and economic blockade against the common enemy and to permit air reconnaissance over Manchuria and China.

As for an economic boycott—a problem somewhat similar to the one that arose recently in the Cuban situation — it so happens that countries which were members of the Security Council itself engaged in trading with the enemy during the Korean War.

It was disclosed early in 1951 that 120,000 tons of rubber had been sent to the Communists through the British port of Hong Kong after the war began in June 1950 — four times what was shipped in 1949 through British sources.

Oil, steel, aluminum, electrical equipment, copper wire and other strategic materials also were being shipped to the Chinese Communists.

WHEN GEN. MacARTHUR testified before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees on May 4, 1951, he made this significant statement:

"One of the great weaknesses of the United Nations effort as a United Nations effort there is that it was not well balanced. Almost the entire burden of blood and effort and money is confined to two countries—the native country of the Koreans, and ourselves. . . .

"The relativity of authority in making international decisions should be based in some degree upon the responsibilities of the agents that carry it out. If one nation carries 90 per cent of the effort, it's quite inappropriate that nations that carry only a small fraction of the efforts and the responsibility should exercise undue authority upon the decisions that are made."

The most sensational proof of how the United States government was forced to accede to the Allied wishes is also to be found in the testimony before the Senate committees which revealed that the United States Department of State on March 20, 1951, had requested Gen. MacArthur to agree to deploy his troops in such a way as to avoid "any advance with major forces north of the 38th Parallel."

He was instructed to "permit sufficient freedom of action for the next few weeks to provide security for U.N. forces and maintain contact with enemy," so as to give time "to determine diplomatic reactions and permit new negotiations that may develop."

This was the beginning of the appeasement and compromise in Korea — the acceptance of an armistice that has to this day not been followed up by the signing of any peace treaty.

THE SOCIALIST Labor government was in power in Great Britain at the time when the trading with the enemy of the U.N. was going on. In the British Parliament, the "left wing" of the Labor party even introduced a motion in the House of Commons calling for an expression of "no confidence" in Gen. MacArthur.

Several days before Gen. MacArthur was relieved of his command, this correspondent wrote in a dispatch that President Truman was being urged to reprimand the general and that demands for this action were coming from London particularly.

Gen. MacArthur had publicly appealed to the United Nations for military help. He had asked for reinforcements again and again, to no avail. He sought the right to bombard the Communist bases from which the Chinese were coming to attack his forces, but the British publicly denounced him — and kept on trading with the enemy.

A general election is to be held in Great Britain this autumn, and undoubtedly the foreign policy of the British Labor party, as revealed in the campaign, will be watched with much concern on this side of the Atlantic in view of the record made by the laborites in the Korean war.

Man Does Not Live By Goulash Alone

Union's Travel Pay Stalls Moonport Project

By VICTOR RIESEL

None of the 29 spacemen who will be riding the rockets to the moon in the second U.S. astronaut program are demanding special travel time pay for their trips to the stars. But earthly unionized iron workers have just stalled the building of the Apollo man - to - the moon blast-off center for days because they wanted special travel time pay for the trip from their homes to the Meritt Island Moonport.

Victor Riesel

To get this special travel time, plus wage increases and high welfare benefits, members of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, Local 402, struck the $63 million Merritt Island project on April 1.

No April Fool's jest, this. By refusing to go on the job they also crippled work on the Air Force's advance solid and liquid fuel Titan-3 rockets which will lift special sky platforms and laboratories into space.

THUS LOCAL 475 Iron Workers defied the Army Corps of Engineers; the Air Force; an angry White House; a hard-working Federal Mediation Service, headed by William E. Simkin; the President's Missile Sties Labor Commission, directed by fair minded specialist Kulius Kuczma, and national leaders of the Building and Construction Trades Dept., AF,-CIO.

The Air Force told the strikers that they were affecting vital defense projects that the situation was "critical" and the work "crucial." The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) warned that the Apollo plans were being hurt by the danger of serious delays. But the men stayed out for eight days—and it took some time to get construction work back to normal upon their return.

Basic here is what the local unionists, who work on the central vertical moon shot assembly building and three other vital structures, violated what was supposedly an absolute no-strike pledge made in 1961. Union leaders had then given their word they would not take their men off these critical jobs.

Yet when the Iron Workers' contract expired on April 1, they went out. This, in turn, forced hundreds of others off the job because they depended on the iron workers' preliminary steel girder work.

WHAT THE unionists wanted was $3.50 a day, across-the-board, premium travel time, regardless of the distance they had to go each morning and afernoon to get to and from Merritt Island. For a five-day week this comes to $17.50 for each of the 475 iron workers. It is, in effect, a raise in pay since many of the men live quite nearby. Many drive in car pools, so the expense is split among four or five men.

In any case, contractors there saw little reason for such sizable payments to a union membership which never had had such a clause in the contract.

Furthermore, the Iron Workers do right well on their basic pay. Until April 1 they received $4.21 cents an hour average pay for a 40-hour week. This goes to more than $6 on some days and to almost $9 an hour for double time. Now this basic rate will go up under new wage agreements.

In addition, there will be increased welfare benefits.

Thus, the wage-travel time and fringe benefit package will run to well over $200 a week for the first 40 hours.

NOT SATISFIED with this, the Iron Workers' local also fought the contractors' demand for a three-year contract. The employers wanted a long period of peace. The union, however, insisted on a two-year term, so it could ask for more increases in a shorter time.

This is business as usual unionism. This appears to have become the vogue at the $450 million Cape Kennedy-Merritt Island moon and defense projects, of which the Apollo operation is just a part.

At the same time as the Iron Workers struck in defiance of the Pentagon and NASA, a small union called the United Plant Guard Workers of America threw up picket lines which at one point kept out some 2,500 space workers.

The guards, who are hired to patrol Cape Kennedy, wanted to extend their jurisdiction to nearby Merritt Island where the Wackenhut Corp. had been hiring new men to protect the Moon port. The company had previously offered to hold an election to determine whether its new guards wanted to join the union. But the United Plant Guards turned this down and threw up pickets.

FINALLY THE COURTS and the National Labor Relations Board stepped in. An election was held. The vote was 36-5 against the union. The new men just did not want to join. But this could not recapture the time lost when thousands of men respected the union guards' picket line and stayed out in violation of the missile site's no-strike pledge.

There is no estimate yet of the exact time and money lost by the government because of the pressure of these small unions. It will be considerable, I'm told.

But certainly all labor has lost prestige because of these strikes. Who will blame the public if it now believes that a no-strike pledge is not worth the parchment on which it is written.

Fabulous Spectacle

By Francis Stilley

NEW YORK

It's a billion-dollar show.

The 1964-65 New York World's Fair which opens April 22 will be an expensive and lavish spectacle.

Attendance originally was estimated at 70 million admissions for the two seasons of operation. But now, with 28 million tickets already sold, there are predictions that attendance may reach 100 million.

It will be a mile-square panorama of the wonders of yesterday, today and tomorrow, blending together achievements of science, education, religion, art, philosophy, music and culture.

The visitor will travel back through millions of years of the earth's history and peer into the far future. And he will see firsthand the best of what the world has to offer today in exhibits from around the world.

Theme of the giant exposition—four years in the making—is "Peace Through Understanding."

About 60 foreign countries will have pavilions or displays featuring their arts, crafts, cuisine and culture.

From the United States, about half the 50 states are represented, many with extensive displays and shows. The federal government, with one of the largest shows on the grounds, will have a sweeping variety of things to see and do—including a "you are there" journey through the sights and sounds of American history.

Some astonishing spectacles have been created by the giants of American commercial enterprise—General Motors, General Electric, Bell Telephone, Ford, Eastman Kodak, Du Pont.

So extensive are their shows and displays that the visitor can spend the better part of a half day viewing each.

The most spectacular parts are arranged in the form of tours which last 12 to 15 minutes. These may be viewed from moving chairs or vehicles which create a feeling of almost personal and private tours.

15th Parade Of Quartets Draws Capacity Crowds

By CLARA HALL

Four good quartets put on a smooth show for the 15th annual Parade of Quartets of the East Liverpool Chapter SPEBSQSA before capacity houses Saturday night and Sunday afternoon at Westgate School.

Fifty per cent of the proceeds have been allocated for the Citizens Scholarship Foundation.

The Village Idiots of Euclid disproved their name and proved to be pretty good comedians, especially with a rendition of "Only a Bird In a Gilded Cage." The group, Dan Shramo, Bob Keener, Tom Neal and Willard Kapes, international semi - finalists, also sang "Lazy River" and "Honey."

The red - jacketed Colonials featured Dale Keddie in a specialty number, "The Umbrella Man," which drew much applause. Other selections were "Honey Bun" and "Red Roses for a Blue Lady." Bill Brooks, Jim Raffle and Chuck Brooks complete the quartet.

A ballad, "Scarlet Ribbons," featured the selections of the Four Rascals of Marblehead, Mass. Set off by nifty white tuxedos and a New England accent, the quartet comprised of Emerson Carley, Tom Spirito, Jim Veinneau and Dick Vienneau, also sang "Till Tomorrow" and "Firefly."

Tom O'Malley, in a Keystone cop outfit, highlighted the performance of The Pittsburghers with his bevy of jokes and solo sequences. The international champs sang "O What a Pal Was Mary" and "Somebody Stole My Gal." Other members of the group are Tom Palamone, Dutch Miller and Jiggs Ward.

Glenn Woods directed the chorus in "When You Wore a Tulip," "Dear Old Girl" and "Don't Cry Little Girl."

Larry Bruno of Beaver Falls, as master of ceremonies, interjected some magic with sleight-of-hand tricks, instead of the usual line of jokes presented by emcees.

Sam Wolfe, president, extended the welcome. Members of the Key Club of the high school served as ushers. High school girls distributing programs were Sheila Ludwig, Janet Brokaw, Margy Mason, Kim Andrews, Valerie Wolfe and Sandy Winland.

Dean Manning was emcee for the after - glow held at St. Aloysius Parochial School Hall with women of the church serving refreshments.

Dick Smith, parade chairman, was assisted by a committee comprised of Jim Maloney, Robert Moore, Don Schussler, Chuck Beaver, Manning and Wolfe.

U.S. Reports Wheat Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — New cotton and wheat stabilization programs, retaining planting allotments established earlier for 1964 crops, have been announced by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

Freeman announced the provisions of the programs, which affect growers, producers and exporters, shortly after President Johnson signed the cotton-wheat bill Saturday.

The legislation will provide about $1 billion in payments to wheat and cotton farmers and subsidies to domestic cotton mills.

The wheat program, which includes a national planting allotment of 49.5 million acres, divides growers into two groups—those who plant and harvest within allotments and those who don't.

Farmers who cooperate with the allotments will be eligible for:

1. Price supports at the national average of $1.30 a bushel.
2. Government-issued marketing certificates on 90 per cent of the normal wheat yield on their allotments.
3. For the remaining 10 per cent of their normal yield, they will get whatever price the market offers.
4. In addition, they will be eligible for payments on wheat land diverted under the wheat allotment program. The diversion payments will be 20 per cent of the county's wheat support rate multiplied by the normal yield of the diverted acres. Farmers will be permitted to divert up to 20 per cent of their allotment.

Cooperating farmers will not be allowed to exceed acreage allotments assigned them on other crops grown on the farms, nor will they be permitted to exceed the wheat allotment on any other farm in which they may have an interest. They will be required to devote any land diverted from wheat under their allotments to a conserving use —not another cash crop.

In order to benefit from the certificate and diversion payment programs, growers must sign up between May 1 and May 15.

Alaska Coast Flooded By After-Shock Tides

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Quake-torn south-central Alaska coastal communities, jolted by another sharp after-shock Sunday, battled floods of sea water from high spring tides today.

The sea, pulled into high tides about this time each year by the combined attraction of the moon and sun, has been moving up into areas which sank in the disastrous earthquake March 27.

The highest for April are expected today and Tuesday, and owners of business buildings in the sunken areas have been trying to protect them by jacking them up or building dikes around them.

Flooding is the big problem now. Sunday's after-shock didn't make much impression on the residents of this shaken state. The ground rocked, and dishes and windows rattled, but no one was reported hurt.

Intruder Gets Bible Picture In Entry Case

A picture with a Biblical theme formed the incongruous loot in a burglary of an East Liverpool home Saturday, police said.

John Hulme, 739 Minerva St., told officers an intruder ransacked his home, removing pictures from the wall. But the only apparent loot was the picture with a religious theme.

Hulme reported the looting at 10 p. m. There was no sign of a forcible entry, police said.

John Eccleston, 1031 Riverview St., told police Sunday night a set of keys was stolen from his auto while it was parked in the garage at his home.

Three vandalism cases also were reported to officers over the weekend.

Dorothy Hoskins of Alliance reported late Sunday afternoon the right front fender and door of her 1959 model car were scratched by a vandal using a sharp instrument while the auto was parked on College St.

Both front fenders and hood of a 1961 sedan were scratched sometime between 9 p. m. Saturday and 10:45 a. m. Sunday at the used car lot of Brown's Auto Sales, 948 Pennsylvania Ave., police said. The owner was listed as Curtis Brown of Clement Way.

Robert Dailey, 929 Claiborne St., told police a vandal hurled a tree limb and broke a 20-x-24-inch window at his home about 1:30 a. m. Sunday.

Students Back Lodge

KENT, Ohio (AP)—Delegates from four colleges taking part in Kent State University's mock Republican national convention, named Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge as the GOP presidential nominee. Lodge was picked on the third ballot Saturday night over Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona 900 to 368. Gov. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon was picked as Lodge's running mate.

Daniels' Case Given Review

Reversing an earlier decision, the State Pardon and Parole Commission at Columbus has started an investigation that is expected to lead to a hearing for Clinton Daniels, who has served 18 years of a life sentence for the "milk wagon murder" of Clarence Dickey on Christmas morning, 1935.

After denying Daniels a hearing on his commutation application until 1966, the commission reversed itself at the insistence of Gov. James A. Rhodes and started the investigative procedures last week.

Parole investigators will check Daniels' prison record, his character and state of rehabilitation, where he would go if released and his possibilities for employment. Such an investigation generally requires 60 days.

Daniels' sentence could be reduced to second degree murder by Gov. Rhodes on recommendation of the commission or to time already served, which would make him eligible for release without parole.

Daniels, now 50, has been in prison since 1945. He now is at the Marion Correctional Institute. Leading the fight for his release are men with whom he served in the South Pacific in World War II as a member of the 37th Division.

Limited Fruit Variety Seen

There's a limited variety of fresh fruit available in district stores this week, the result of a change in seasons, but improvement will be noted soon, according to Ed Watkins, market information agent with the Agriculture Extension Service in Canfield.

Apples and bananas still are available in volume, but grapefruit supplies are decreasing rapidly, Watkins said.

A limited amount of cantaloupes from Mexico, honeydews and Sapnish melons from Chile, pears from the west coast and South Africa, limes from Florida, pineapple from Hawaii, Puerto Rico and Mexico and grapes from California, South Africa, and Chile are available.

Strawberries and rhubarb round out the fresh fruit this week. Strawberry sources are Louisiana and California. Rhubarb is now coming from hothouses in Michigan.

Area greenhouses are now producing cucumbers, leaf and Bibb lettuce, tomatoes and watercress. These tomatoes are slowly increasing in quantity and within a month will be a major source of fresh tomatoes in this area.

Asparagus prices are slowly declining. The east coast product is being delayed by continuing cold weather. Carrots, cabbage, potatoes, celery, lettuce, and onions are largely unchanged in price. Tomatoes, radishes, cucumbers are slightly lower.

New food products now in the test stage include a ready-to-feed infant formula in a disposable glass bottle. To use, the mother twists off the bottle cap, attaches any standard nipple unit, feeds the baby, detaches the nipple and throws away the bottle.

A new canning process reduces the time necessary to cook and serve canned products and opens the way to use a wider variety of cans, aluminum, glass, foil and possibly plastics.

Peacocks Pester Pasadenans Who Eye Peacock Pie

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Anyone for Pavan cristatus pie?

The next question is "what's that?" Well, it's peacock pie, for which, it seems, no one has the recipe.

Several home owners in East Pasadena had the ingredients Sunday morning when a flock of peacocks—Pavan cristati — descended on their neighborhood.

Now the peacock is a beautiful bird, except when he opens his mouth. His call, if it can be called that, is a raucus screech, resembling the sound of a disabled jet engine.

The pea hen, his mate, speaks in similar tones.

A crew from the humane society spent several hours chasing the birds. They caught one.

The rest moved to the campus of nearby Pasadena City College, where the pursuit continued.

Where they came from, nobody knew, but officials suspected they were from the nearby Los Angeles State and County Arboretum.

Scandal Reports British Launch Probe Of Soccer

SHEFFIELD, England (AP) —Police investigations start today into a soccer betting scandal that threatens a major disaster for Britain's national sport.

Soccer authorities launched their own investigation alongside the police probe. Football insiders were saying it seemed inevitable that several top players will be barred from the game for life.

The storm erupted with an article in The People, a Sunday newspaper with a circulation of five million, charging that a big money betting ring had corrupted nearly 30 players in its hunt for large profits.

The People named three players:

Tony Kay, Everton and former Sheffield Wednesday halfback, a key man in the England international squad.

Peter Swan, Sheffield Wednesday's center half and veteran of 19 international matches.

David Bronco Layne, Wednesday's high scoring center forward.

These three, The People said, backed Sheffield Wednesday to lose against Ipswich in a first division match in December 1962. Kay then still was a member of the Sheffield side.

Wednesday lost. The three players won heavily, but could do so, The People said, only because their bet was coupled with other matches which the betting ring had fixed.

Scandal Reports British Launch Probe Of Soccer

SHEFFIELD, England (AP) —Police investigations start today into a soccer betting scandal that threatens a major disaster for Britain's national sport.

Soccer authorities launched their own investigation alongside the police probe. Football insiders were saying it seemed inevitable that several top players will be barred from the game for life.

The storm erupted with an article in The People, a Sunday newspaper with a circulation of five million, charging that a big money betting ring had corrupted nearly 30 players in its hunt for large profits.

The People named three players:

Tony Kay, Everton and former Sheffield Wednesday halfback, a key man in the England international squad.

Peter Swan, Sheffield Wednesday's center half and veteran of 19 international matches.

David Bronco Layne, Wednesday's high scoring center forward.

These three, The People said, backed Sheffield Wednesday to lose against Ipswich in a first division match in December 1962. Kay then still was a member of the Sheffield side.

Wednesday lost. The three players won heavily, but could do so, The People said, only because their bet was coupled with other matches which the betting ring had fixed.

Thousands Pay Tribute At MacArthur Memorial

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Showery April skies were expected to dampen only slightly today the tempo of posthumous tribute to General of the Army Douglas MacArthur.

Officials of the MacArthur Memorial Museum said they anticipated that further thousands would line the sidewalk outside the imposing, columned building while awaiting their turn to view the sunken crypt where the general was interred last Saturday.

The memorial held its doors open until 9 p.m. Sunday—three hours beyond the normal closing time—to accommodate the more than 6,000 persons who came to pay their last respects.

It was scheduled to be open to the public today from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., but there was a chance these hours would be extended again by heavy attendance.

More than 61,000 persons viewed the body of the general in Norfolk at the end of a week of extraordinary tribute to the man who led American soldiers into battle in three major wars. His burial here, a Navy town in which he never lived, was his request because it was the scene of his mother's birth and childhood.

The last rites Saturday under brilliant skies were attended by more than 400 civilian and military dignitaries, relatives, old comrades-in-arms and representatives of 10 foreign governments.

They began with the removal of the plain military casket bearing the remains of the 84-year-old general from the rotunda of the memorial, a reconverted courthouse, to St. Paul's Episcopal Church, two blocks away.

Mrs. MacArthur and her son Arthur, 26, walked behind the caisson en route to the church and on the return to the memorial.

Shortly after the memorial opened a 4-year-old girl, Vivian Bayoreta, received permission to place a wreath by the crypt. She was aided by her father, M. Sgt. Solomon H. Bayoreta, who was awarded the Silver Star for protecting MacArthur from a bomb burst on Corregidor in December 1941.

Bayoreta said he traveled to Norfolk from Syracuse, N.Y., and waited three days to place the wreath in the rotunda. He vowed he would return each year to "pay my respects to the general."

Senate Goes Into Another Debate Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate starts its sixth week of battling over the civil rights bill today, with each camp contending time is on its side.

In the House, except for a $7 billion appropriation bill to be taken up Tuesday, only routine measures are on the agenda.

For members of the Senate and House alike, today's season-opening American League baseball game between Washington and Los Angeles is bound to be a irresistible attraction.

But Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant Democratic leader, said the ball game will not halt the Senate's civil rights debate.

He said he understands that Southern senators, leading the fight against the House-passed bill, "have a couple of long-ball speakers" ready to take the floor and keep things going until the game is over.

Humphrey, the floor manager of the bill, and Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., quarterback for the Dixie forces, agreed no vote on proposed amendments is in prospect this week.

The Southerners plan a continuing round of speeches in reply to arguments presented by the bill's backers the last two weeks.

But Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant Democratic leader, said the ball game will not halt the Senate's civil rights debate.

He said he understands that Southern senators, leading the fight against the House-passed bill, "have a couple of long-ball speakers" ready to take the floor and keep things going until the game is over.

Humphrey, the floor manager of the bill, and Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., quarterback for the Dixie forces, agreed no vote on proposed amendments is in prospect this week.

The Southerners plan a continuing round of speeches in reply to arguments presented by the bill's backers the last two weeks.

Out Of The Air

By ALAN GILL

Jack, The Nimble, Cuts To The Quick

Over a friendly lunch a few weeks back, a fellow I know turned suddenly purple about the jowls and began sputtering in fury over a Jack Paar program he'd seen a few days before.

Alan Gill

Paar, my friend insisted, was mean, snide, hateful, rotten to the core, and besides, he should wash his mouth out with soap. This uncharacteristic outburst left everyone at the table shyly silent for a moment, until we remembered that Parr had made a crack about firemen that Friday night.

-:-

OF COURSE! My friend's father had been a firemen all the years of his life. Besides, at the very moment Paar was speaking, a number of smoke eaters were eating a good deal of smoke in a warehouse fire on the Brooklyn water front.

Paar's inspiration came from a news item that had one Manhattan firehouse entertaining party girls between alarms. Whenever he saw a hook and ladder come screaming down the street those days, said Paar, he couldn't decide whether it was on its way to a fire or barreling back home.

Well, I suppose Jack Paar SHOULD scrub his tongue with soap ever so often, for he has the soul of a gossip and the mind of a Peeping Tom.

-:-

HE REMINDS ME of a saying that went out of date when Paar was still in baby pants.

"Come on, girls," one bored housewife would tell her friends over the back-yard fence, "let's get together over tea this afternoon and dish the dirt."

Paar needs no such invitation. The dirt is for the dishing any time, any place.

Paar, I'd say, will have other misdemeanors to account for, too, when Judgment Day rolls around. He purrs meanly. He flashes sharp nails. He positively hugs himself with self-congratulation when he feels he's made a Bright Remark or done a Good Deed.

-:-

WITHOUT A DOUBT, he's the most embarrassing name dropper anywhere. (If I were the attorney general of the United States, I'd ask Paar please to keep our friendship top secret.)

Finally, when the fellow gets off on religion — as he did Good Friday night with his Jim Bishop interview and his helicopter tour of the Holy Land —there is something terribly jarring there.

He can refer as casually to Christ as he does to the Kennedy family or Albert Schweitzer. And a viewer feels a strange giddiness coming on. As though the fellow delivering the sermon forgot to put on his pants.

-:-

NOW THAT all these things have been said, let's get down to the one essential fact about "The Jack Paar Show" — it's funny. Through all the felinity of Paar's opening monologues, they are witty and intelligent, they are often courageous, and they bulge in every line with the unique personality of the man up there on the stool.

In a nice way, too, they are flattering. Paar assumes that his viewers occasionally read a book and see a play.

Best of all, though, Paar has assembled a famous "in" group of conversationalists to give his show the hum of good table talk. (Despite the occasional singer, Paar's show is essentially talk —funny, self-pleased, informed, irreverent, wicked "man talk.")

And I don't think there is any greater pleasure offered by television just now than the ruminations of Robert Morley and Oscar Levant, who were on the other night, or Peter Ustinov, Malcom Muggeridge and Jonathan Winters.

-:-

MORLEY was extremely eloquent in his disdain for any sort of sport but gambling. He advised Americans to stop all this unhealthy, unpleasant business of dieting and begin to live instead. ("Eat up!")

Levant, his nerves jumping like a sack full of crickets, repeated a number of his more impolite assessments of his contemporaries, most of which were murderously on target.

And I remember, some weeks back, an interview with a Cambridge-accented Jonathan Winters in a London park. Paar asked him whether he knew any of the principals in the Profumo scandal.

"Oh, no, no, no," said Winters, puffing quickly at his pipe, "none of the chaps, just the girls."

"The Jack Paar Show" has no competition in its special field of entertainment. It IS its field.

Fidel Speeches Used To Torture Prisoners

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Making political prisoners in Cuba listen to Fidel Castro's speeches over and over is one of several means used to torture them, a former prisoner says.

Dr. Mario Robau, a physician who said he was assigned to treat fellow inmates in Havana's La Cabana Prison, said the speech treatment "breaks the prisoners' nerves."

Dr. Robau, recently arrived by way of Mexico, told a news conference Sunday that another torture was to sick German shepherd dogs on prisoners. The dogs are trained to scratch, he said.

Dr. Robau said he was imprisoned a year ago without charge and released in January.

Bishop's Visit Set

The bishop is in the United States to attend the quadrennial meeting of the Methodist General Conference in Pittsburgh April 26-May 10.

Bringing Up A Family

By DR. GARRY MYERS

Price For Leniency Can Be Very High

Excessive permissiveness which widely prevails in the rearing of children, especially during their early years, demands a big price to be paid by parents, by teachers, by Sunday school teachers, by Scout leaders, by all welfare organizations, by officers of the law, by entire communities and by the nation — and even by the children themselves.

Dr. Garry Myers

The child who up to five or six does almost as he pleases has little or no regard for the word No and usually gets what he wants when he wants it may, later, pay the price with his life or with a maimed body.

Consider the children who lose their lives or are left long or lifetime invalids or cripples because they do not want to or know how to, obey doctor's orders when they have to. Think of the thousands of children who are burned to death or killed or injured otherwise at home because they disobeyed orders about safety habits. Thousand more are killed or injured in the streets for the same reasons.

MANY CHILDREN who have not learned the meaning of personal restraint often find it difficult to make friends with other youngsters.

Think of the price the parents of the unrestrained child must pay — their constant annoyance and humiliation over his disobedience; their increasing worries over physical and moral dangers facing him, their grief if the consequences are fatal; their disgrace when he comes in conflict with the police and courts.

Many parents, not having trained their child in his early years to respect the little word No, find themselves unable to control him when he is 10, 14 or 16, and watch helplessly as he joins the gangs of juvenile delinquents.

Consider how much harder it is for the teacher to do her best in the classroom because some of the pupils had never learned at home the basics of obedience and respect for the rights of others. See how much time and energy must be wasted on these children brought up at home in excessive permissiveness.

Den mothers, Scoutmasters or Sunday school teachers, etc., have more difficulties with the children who have not learned at home the habit of restraint, the foundation of self-control.

AND DON'T overlook the enormous price both children and parents pay in loss of mutual love and enjoyment. Of course, the child needs lots of love, but it's not possible for him to get enough when he has not learned how to obey.

And when you read or hear of the rapid growth year by year of the number of children appearing before our juvenile courts and all the efforts by organizations and experts at trying to curb increasing juvenile delinquency, don't you often wish the attention of the public, especially of young parents, might be turned toward the nursery, toward children from 2 to 6 or 8 and to the need of their more strict upbringing then?

Don't you wish parents who are best educated and most looked up to in their respective communities would lead off at checking excessive permissiveness with their young children; that they would set standards for teaching their tots the unambiguous meaning of No?

My bulletins, "How Juvenile Delinquency Can Be Curbed," "Love and Restraint" and "How to Teach Child Meaning of No," may be secured by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Out Of The Air

By ALAN GILL

Jack, The Nimble, Cuts To The Quick

Over a friendly lunch a few weeks back, a fellow I know turned suddenly purple about the jowls and began sputtering in fury over a Jack Paar program he'd seen a few days before.

Alan Gill

Paar, my friend insisted, was mean, snide, hateful, rotten to the core, and besides, he should wash his mouth out with soap. This uncharacteristic outburst left everyone at the table shyly silent for a moment, until we remembered that Parr had made a crack about firemen that Friday night.

-:-

OF COURSE! My friend's father had been a firemen all the years of his life. Besides, at the very moment Paar was speaking, a number of smoke eaters were eating a good deal of smoke in a warehouse fire on the Brooklyn water front.

Paar's inspiration came from a news item that had one Manhattan firehouse entertaining party girls between alarms. Whenever he saw a hook and ladder come screaming down the street those days, said Paar, he couldn't decide whether it was on its way to a fire or barreling back home.

Well, I suppose Jack Paar SHOULD scrub his tongue with soap ever so often, for he has the soul of a gossip and the mind of a Peeping Tom.

-:-

HE REMINDS ME of a saying that went out of date when Paar was still in baby pants.

"Come on, girls," one bored housewife would tell her friends over the back-yard fence, "let's get together over tea this afternoon and dish the dirt."

Paar needs no such invitation. The dirt is for the dishing any time, any place.

Paar, I'd say, will have other misdemeanors to account for, too, when Judgment Day rolls around. He purrs meanly. He flashes sharp nails. He positively hugs himself with self-congratulation when he feels he's made a Bright Remark or done a Good Deed.

-:-

WITHOUT A DOUBT, he's the most embarrassing name dropper anywhere. (If I were the attorney general of the United States, I'd ask Paar please to keep our friendship top secret.)

Finally, when the fellow gets off on religion — as he did Good Friday night with his Jim Bishop interview and his helicopter tour of the Holy Land —there is something terribly jarring there.

He can refer as casually to Christ as he does to the Kennedy family or Albert Schweitzer. And a viewer feels a strange giddiness coming on. As though the fellow delivering the sermon forgot to put on his pants.

-:-

NOW THAT all these things have been said, let's get down to the one essential fact about "The Jack Paar Show" — it's funny. Through all the felinity of Paar's opening monologues, they are witty and intelligent, they are often courageous, and they bulge in every line with the unique personality of the man up there on the stool.

In a nice way, too, they are flattering. Paar assumes that his viewers occasionally read a book and see a play.

Best of all, though, Paar has assembled a famous "in" group of conversationalists to give his show the hum of good table talk. (Despite the occasional singer, Paar's show is essentially talk —funny, self-pleased, informed, irreverent, wicked "man talk.")

And I don't think there is any greater pleasure offered by television just now than the ruminations of Robert Morley and Oscar Levant, who were on the other night, or Peter Ustinov, Malcom Muggeridge and Jonathan Winters.

-:-

MORLEY was extremely eloquent in his disdain for any sort of sport but gambling. He advised Americans to stop all this unhealthy, unpleasant business of dieting and begin to live instead. ("Eat up!")

Levant, his nerves jumping like a sack full of crickets, repeated a number of his more impolite assessments of his contemporaries, most of which were murderously on target.

And I remember, some weeks back, an interview with a Cambridge-accented Jonathan Winters in a London park. Paar asked him whether he knew any of the principals in the Profumo scandal.

"Oh, no, no, no," said Winters, puffing quickly at his pipe, "none of the chaps, just the girls."

"The Jack Paar Show" has no competition in its special field of entertainment. It IS its field.

Fidel Speeches Used To Torture Prisoners

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Making political prisoners in Cuba listen to Fidel Castro's speeches over and over is one of several means used to torture them, a former prisoner says.

Dr. Mario Robau, a physician who said he was assigned to treat fellow inmates in Havana's La Cabana Prison, said the speech treatment "breaks the prisoners' nerves."

Dr. Robau, recently arrived by way of Mexico, told a news conference Sunday that another torture was to sick German shepherd dogs on prisoners. The dogs are trained to scratch, he said.

Dr. Robau said he was imprisoned a year ago without charge and released in January.

Bringing Up A Family

By DR. GARRY MYERS

Price For Leniency Can Be Very High

Excessive permissiveness which widely prevails in the rearing of children, especially during their early years, demands a big price to be paid by parents, by teachers, by Sunday school teachers, by Scout leaders, by all welfare organizations, by officers of the law, by entire communities and by the nation — and even by the children themselves.

Dr. Garry Myers

The child who up to five or six does almost as he pleases has little or no regard for the word No and usually gets what he wants when he wants it may, later, pay the price with his life or with a maimed body.

Consider the children who lose their lives or are left long or lifetime invalids or cripples because they do not want to or know how to, obey doctor's orders when they have to. Think of the thousands of children who are burned to death or killed or injured otherwise at home because they disobeyed orders about safety habits. Thousand more are killed or injured in the streets for the same reasons.

MANY CHILDREN who have not learned the meaning of personal restraint often find it difficult to make friends with other youngsters.

Think of the price the parents of the unrestrained child must pay — their constant annoyance and humiliation over his disobedience; their increasing worries over physical and moral dangers facing him, their grief if the consequences are fatal; their disgrace when he comes in conflict with the police and courts.

Many parents, not having trained their child in his early years to respect the little word No, find themselves unable to control him when he is 10, 14 or 16, and watch helplessly as he joins the gangs of juvenile delinquents.

Consider how much harder it is for the teacher to do her best in the classroom because some of the pupils had never learned at home the basics of obedience and respect for the rights of others. See how much time and energy must be wasted on these children brought up at home in excessive permissiveness.

Den mothers, Scoutmasters or Sunday school teachers, etc., have more difficulties with the children who have not learned at home the habit of restraint, the foundation of self-control.

AND DON'T overlook the enormous price both children and parents pay in loss of mutual love and enjoyment. Of course, the child needs lots of love, but it's not possible for him to get enough when he has not learned how to obey.

And when you read or hear of the rapid growth year by year of the number of children appearing before our juvenile courts and all the efforts by organizations and experts at trying to curb increasing juvenile delinquency, don't you often wish the attention of the public, especially of young parents, might be turned toward the nursery, toward children from 2 to 6 or 8 and to the need of their more strict upbringing then?

Don't you wish parents who are best educated and most looked up to in their respective communities would lead off at checking excessive permissiveness with their young children; that they would set standards for teaching their tots the unambiguous meaning of No?

My bulletins, "How Juvenile Delinquency Can Be Curbed," "Love and Restraint" and "How to Teach Child Meaning of No," may be secured by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

'Thorofare' Remodeled

Official opening of the remodeled and redecorated Thorofare Market on Pennsylvania Ave. was held today with the store holding an Italian foods festival to highlight the celebration.

The remodeled and redecorated interior allows the store to conform to the company's newer "pacesetter" markets, said Frank Arcuri, assistant manager who is in charge during the vacation of David Jenkins, manager.

The design and a new lighting system, which provides about 40 per cent more light, provides for a roomier appearance, Arcuri said, and will eliminate congestion at the front of the store.

As an additional means of eliminating crowding, an express checkout counter has been installed adjacent to the new office.

The store is color - coded with different colors used for different sections, the assistant manager said, explaining candy - striped wallpaper is used to designate the candy section and pink and blue wallpaper in the baby foods department.

The meat market has been enlarged and new equipment for cutting and wrapping meat has been installed.

William Bangor has been named manager of the meat department replacing Clyde Cox, who recently was elevated to supervisor in the northwestern district.

Shelf space has been increased about 20 per cent, Arcuri estimated.

A new mercury lighting system has been installed in the 250-car parking lot, which will be resurfaced later, he continued.

Ohio Lists 11 Road Deaths On Weekend

By The Associated Press

Although balmy spring weather brought pleasure drivers out in droves, the number of deaths on Ohio's highways over the weekend was about average for the 54-hour period.

At least 11 deaths in traffic accidents during the period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday were reported to the Associated Press. One other person was killed in a fire for a total accidental weekend death toll of 12.

Most of the accidents occurred Saturday, and all of the deaths occurred in separate accidents.

The most unusual accident happened Sunday on a rural road in Medina near West Salem.

The braking mechanism of a drag racer failed to work as it was being clocked at 174 miles an hour on a drag strip. The racer ran off the end of the strip, sailed into the air and smashed into two cars traveling on the rural road. An occupant of one of the cars was killed.

The fatalities:

Sunday

John Mackay, 22, Baltimore, Md., in a crash involving his car and two tractor - trailer trucks on U.S. 40 two miles east of Zanesville.

Mrs. Helen McGrath, 41, McConnelsville, when the car she was in collided nearly head-on with a truck on Ohio 60 a mile north of McConnelsville.

Thomas Southland, 18, Lodi, when his car, traveling on Medina County Road 111 near West Salem, was struck by a drag racer which ran off the end of a drag strip.

Saturday

Edward Lee Gibby, 23, West Alexandria, struck by two cars as he hitch-hiked on Ohio 271 in Mayfield Heights.

Donna Rae Gillespie, 21, Jackson, in a car-truck collision on U.S. 35 near Jackson.

Corena Logston, 18, Woodstock, when a train hit the stalled car she was sitting in one mile east of Woodstock.

Patricia Ann Gahm, 18, Rt. 2, Minford, when the car she was riding in left a Scioto County road near Portsmouth.

Kenneth R. Quigley, 23, Dayton, when his motorcycle crashed into a tree near Trotwood.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter, Sarah, is 27 years old. She has a good job as secretary to an executive in a shoe factory.

For the last four years she has been going with a fellow who works there as a foreman. I will call him Ralph, although that is not his name. In fact he doesn't work at the factory either. I just put that in to disguise him in case this letter shows up in the paper.

Ralph lives in a rooming house. He comes here for dinner three nights a week and uses our bathtub. He says it is almost impossible to get into the bathroom at the rooming house. When he does get in, there is no hot water.

We don't mind except he never cleans the tub after he uses it. Once my wife placed a can of scouring powder right in the middle of the tub but he didn't take the hint.

We wouldn't care if we were sure Ralph was going to marry our Sarah but he hasn't proposed to her even though he never dates anyone else. What do you think? — WEDDING BELLS WANTED.

-:-

Dear Bells: I'm afraid the only ring Sarah ever will see is the one Ralph leaves around the tub.

A fellow doesn't go steady with a girl four years and not declare his honorable intentions — if he has any. Sarah should have a frank talk with Ralph regarding the future. If he isn't interested in marriage she should — if you will excuse the expression — pull the plug on him.

Imperfect Parents

Dear Ann: We are ready to admit we are failures. Strange, too, because we were going to be perfect parents. It should have been easy. Our own wants are few and we were willing to devote ourselves totally to our children.

We are an average family, with an average income. We live in an average house and drive an average car. We taught our children to swim, fish, hunt, bowl, golf, skate and dance. We've taken them picnicking, camping, on sightseeing trips and given them everything they need.

Yet, ever since they learned to talk all we have heard is, "But all the neighbor kids have nicer bikes, better guns, more spending money. . . ."

Now it's, "But all the other kids can go steady. I'm always the first one to leave a party. Everyone has more fun than I do."

You might say they are just spoiled but how did they get that way? We take them to church regularly, insist on week nights for study and set their allowances at a reasonable minimum.

They can have the car occasionally but we always know where they are and with whom. Yet they seem discontented, misunderstood and dissatisfied with their parents. Why?—THE FAILURES.

-:-

Dear Friends: I refuse to call you failure because I don't believe you have failed. There is no such animal as a perfect parent because there are no perfect people.

You have invested a great deal of time and energy in your children and, believe me, it will pay off handsomely in the long run.

Your children may seem to you to be discontented and misunderstood but I don't buy it. They may gripe, buck for more freedom or rebel against authority. But so what? Every kid tests. Every kid feels for soft spots. Every kid vies for position.

At times all parents feel they are failures but your letter contains no sign of failure — only a report of their gripes.

You sound as if you are unquestionably in control. And when parents are in control the children feel secure. They know their parents love them enough to keep an eye on them and to insist on decent standards of conduct.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self - addressd envelope.

Area Banker's Group Will Meet Wednesday

The Youngstown Chapter of the National Association for Bank Audit, Control and Operation will meet Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. at the Tippecanoe Country Club in Youngstown.

John K. Allison of the First National Bank is secretary. Harry L. Loy of the First National Bank of Lawrence County in New Castle is president.

The program will be a panel discussion on "Consumer Credit." Leonard J. Sainato of the Second National Bank at Warren will be moderator.

Fire Hits Akron Store

AKRON, Ohio (AP)-Ivuef Gerald Vernotzy estimated damage at $75,000 in a fire and explosion that destroyed the Diamond Super Market in downtown Akron Sunday. Police said the explosion blew out plate glass windows and part of the rear wall of the two-story brick building.

Cancer Drive At Chester To Seek $1,000

Members of the Chester Junior Women's Club will make a house-to-house canvass Tuesday, seeking $1,000 as the community's goal in Hancock County's appeal for $12,000 to aid the annual American Cancer Society crusade.

Mrs. James Moore, chairman of the drive in Chester, has named as neighborhood chairmen Mrs. Harold Ossman, Mrs. Clayton Hobbs Jr., Miss Saundra Aken and Mrs. Ronald Gibbs. Miss Saundra Aken is secretary-treasurer of the Chester club's campaign.

All members of the junior Women's Club will participate in the crusade.

The $12,000 goal was announced at a kick-off luncheon Saturday at the Williams Country Club in Weirton. Sixty per cent of the funds will remain in the county, the group emphasized.

The money retained in the county supports local programs of public and professional education and services to cancer patients and their families.

The remaining 40 per cent is used nationally for a three-fold program of research, education and service. The theme for this year's drive is "Tell Your Neighbor."

The Chester club pointed out that 90,000 Americans died needlessly of cancer last year. It said many of the deaths could have been prevented if the cancer was detected and treated in time.

The national aim of the society is to make everyone aware of the life-saving facts about cancer through educational material every resident will receive during April from a cancer volunteer worker.

Speed Reported Major Cause Of District Mishaps

Speed as the cause of the majority of one-car accidents in Columbiana County and failure to pass properly as a cause of two - car mishaps were listed as top reasons for traffic crashes in the first three months of 1964 by the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Sgt. R. J. Rizzo reported five people were killed and 154 hurt in 258 accidents investigated by the patrol from January through March.

The sergeant said there were 101 one-car mishaps. Of these, 30 took place when the roads were snow - covered, 13 when roads were icy, 29 when roads were wet and 30 when roads were dry.

He said 86 of the accidents occurred because the driver was traveling too fast for road conditions. Sgt. Rizzo pointed out the county has a number of hilly areas with curves in the roadway, and that motorists should guard against losing control at such sites because of speed.

Of the other accidents, 34 were the result of one driver passing another just as the second driver made a turn.

Bodies Needed For Science

Cadaver Law Needs Seen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The ghoulish practice of body-snatching disappeared from Ohio geneations ago—but the need of cadavers by medical science has not, an anatomy professor points out.

Now a new law is needed in this state to clarify a man's right to donate his body for use by science, says Dr. Linden Forest Edwards, the Ohio State University professor of anatomy.

Dr. Edwards, who has done much writing and research on the subject, and holds the Ph.D. rather than an M.D. degree, reviewed the days of a century or less ago when funeral arrangements in Ohio often went well beyond burial. Steps against body-snatchers frequently were included.

Today, the public attitude which resulted in the robbing of graves has not disappeared entirely, he said.

Dr. Edwards wrote in the Ohio State Medical Journal in 1951 of "the attitude of our lawmakers during the 19th century, who demanded of physicians a knowledge of the structure of the human body while at the same time they made it illegal for medical schools to obtain human bodies for dissection."

More recently, he noted in the Journal that Ohio courts do not recognize a person's right to will his own body to a medical college in this state for such purposes as teaching or research.

He adds, however, that there is a form on which people can indicate such a desire. Included is a certificate, to be signed by relatives, signifying their willingness to waive claim to the donor's remains.

Those relatives who oppose a donor's wishes after his death show that opposition to human dissection, while declining, still exists, he says.

During the 1961 legislature, State Sen. Donald C. Steiner of Canton sought to make such bequeathals part of state law, but his bill did not pass.

Edwards has high hopes that such a bill will come up in a future session. He cites the increasing needs of expanding enrollments and what he calls "the growing desire of more and more of our citizens to make (such) a gift legally."

Human dissection is vital in medical and dental education, Edwards says. A primary source now is unclaimed bodies from state institutions.

The Massachusetts legislature was the first in this country to direct public officials to make unclaimed remains available for medical study, he says. But, about a week after that state passed its law in 1831, Ohio passed one promising punishment to body-snatchers.

Fifty years later, Ohio lawmakers finally made it legal for unclaimed remains to be used to further medical knowledge.

Until then, just as had happened in Europe, physicians and medical students had to obtain cadavers as best they could, Edwards says.

And this encouraged body-snatching. Sometimes the medical men and their students did it. Sometimes draymen, who had the carts, made it a nighttime pursuit.

One body taken—and later recovered—was that of John Scott Harrison of near Cincinnati, son of William Henry Harrison and father of Benjamin.

To counteract this trend, relatives often hired guards or reinforced the graves. It was generally considered unlikely that grave robbers could strike more than a week after burial, and Edwards says old cemeteries in Ohio and other states still have some vaults constructed to protect the remains for that period.

But Edwards is hardly the morbid type personally.

Last month he received an alumni award for distinguished teaching which characterized him as "a dynamic persons, a fascinating lecturer, an able researcher, an inimitable humorist, and a skillful counselor."

Body-snatching is just one of the historical aspects of Ohio medicine he has explored. He has taught 37 years at OSU, headed the Anatomy Department for four, written and contributed to textbooks and professional publications.

Two out of every three adults in the U. S. have driver licenses.

Fire Hits Akron Store

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Ivuef Gerald Vernotzy estimated damage at $75,000 in a fire and explosion that destroyed the Diamond Super Market in downtown Akron Sunday. Police said the explosion blew out plate glass windows and part of the rear wall of the two-story brick building.

Cancer Drive At Chester To Seek $1,000

Members of the Chester Junior Women's Club will make a house-to-house canvass Tuesday, seeking $1,000 as the community's goal in Hancock County's appeal for $12,000 to aid the annual American Cancer Society crusade.

Mrs. James Moore, chairman of the drive in Chester, has named as neighborhood chairmen Mrs. Harold Ossman, Mrs. Clayton Hobbs Jr., Miss Saundra Aken and Mrs. Ronald Gibbs. Miss Saundra Aken is secretary-treasurer of the Chester club's campaign.

All members of the junior Women's Club will participate in the crusade.

The $12,000 goal was announced at a kick-off luncheon Saturday at the Williams Country Club in Weirton. Sixty per cent of the funds will remain in the county, the group emphasized.

The money retained in the county supports local programs of public and professional education and services to cancer patients and their families.

The remaining 40 per cent is used nationally for a three-fold program of research, education and service. The theme for this year's drive is "Tell Your Neighbor."

The Chester club pointed out that 90,000 Americans died needlessly of cancer last year. It said many of the deaths could have been prevented if the cancer was detected and treated in time.

The national aim of the society is to make everyone aware of the life-saving facts about cancer through educational material every resident will receive during April from a cancer volunteer worker.

Speed Reported Major Cause Of District Mishaps

Speed as the cause of the majority of one-car accidents in Columbiana County and failure to pass properly as a cause of two - car mishaps were listed as top reasons for traffic crashes in the first three months of 1964 by the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Sgt. R. J. Rizzo reported five people were killed and 154 hurt in 258 accidents investigated by the patrol from January through March.

The sergeant said there were 101 one-car mishaps. Of these, 30 took place when the roads were snow - covered, 13 when roads were icy, 29 when roads were wet and 30 when roads were dry.

He said 86 of the accidents occurred because the driver was traveling too fast for road conditions. Sgt. Rizzo pointed out the county has a number of hilly areas with curves in the roadway, and that motorists should guard against losing control at such sites because of speed.

Of the other accidents, 34 were the result of one driver passing another just as the second driver made a turn.

Bodies Needed For Science

Cadaver Law Needs Seen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The ghoulish practice of body-snatching disappeared from Ohio geneations ago—but the need of cadavers by medical science has not, an anatomy professor points out.

Now a new law is needed in this state to clarify a man's right to donate his body for use by science, says Dr. Linden Forest Edwards, the Ohio State University professor of anatomy.

Dr. Edwards, who has done much writing and research on the subject, and holds the Ph.D. rather than an M.D. degree, reviewed the days of a century or less ago when funeral arrangements in Ohio often went well beyond burial. Steps against body-snatchers frequently were included.

Today, the public attitude which resulted in the robbing of graves has not disappeared entirely, he said.

Dr. Edwards wrote in the Ohio State Medical Journal in 1961 of "the attitude of our lawmakers during the 19th century, who demanded of physicians a knowledge of the structure of the human body while at the same time they made it illegal for medical schools to obtain human bodies for dissection."

More recently, he noted in the Journal that Ohio courts do not recognize a person's right to will his own body to a medical college in this state for such purposes as teaching or research.

He adds, however, that there is a form on which people can indicate such a desire. Included is a certificate, to be signed by relatives, signifying their willingness to waive claim to the donor's remains.

Those relatives who oppose a donor's wishes after his death show that opposition to human dissection, while declining, still exists, he says.

During the 1961 legislature, State Sen. Donald C. Steiner of Canton sought to make such bequeathals part of state law, but his bill did not pass.

Edwards has high hopes that such a bill will come up in a future session. He cites the increasing needs of expanding enrollments and what he calls "the growing desire of more and more of our citizens to make (such) a gift legally."

Human dissection is vital in medical and dental education, Edwards says. A primary source now is unclaimed bodies from state institutions.

The Massachusetts legislature was the first in this country to direct public officials to make unclaimed remains available for medical study, he says. But, about a week after that state passed its law in 1831, Ohio passed one promising punishment to body-snatchers.

Fifty years later, Ohio lawmakers finally made it legal for unclaimed remains to be used to further medical knowledge.

Until then, just as had happened in Europe, physicians and medical students had to obtain cadavers as best they could, Edwards says.

And this encouraged body-snatching. Sometimes the medical men and their students did it. Sometimes draymen, who had the carts, made it a nighttime pursuit.

One body taken—and later recovered—was that of John Scott Harrison of near Cincinnati, son of William Henry Harrison and father of Benjamin.

To counteract this trend, relatives often hired guards or reinforced the graves. It was generally considered unlikely that grave robbers could strike more than a week after burial, and Edwards says old cemeteries in Ohio and other states still have some vaults constructed to protect the remains for that period.

But Edwards is hardly the morbid type personally.

Last month he received an alumni award for distinguished teaching which characterized him as "a dynamic persons, a fascinating lecturer, an able researcher, an inimitable humorist, and a skillful counselor."

Body-snatching is just one of the historical aspects of Ohio medicine he has explored. He has taught 37 years at OSU, headed the Anatomy Department for four, written and contributed to textbooks and professional publications.

Two out of every three adults in the U. S. have driver licenses.

Palmer Dismisses Doubts, Wins Masters By 6 Shots

Arnie Hits 276 Total For Crown

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Not so long ago, there was a golf champion everybody liked. He won the big tournaments and did impossible things.

Soon he was rich and famous. Then he didn't win any big tournaments or do any impossible things for a while, and people said he didn't know how to, anymore. They said he was too rich, and besides he couldn't putt like he used to.

Even Arnold Palmer heard the stories.

"The question mark was as big in my mind as in anybody else's when I stepped up to the first tee here," Palmer said, after he won his fourth Masters Golf Tournament over the Augusta National Course Sunday.

"It was like checking out an airplane with new spark plugs. I wasn't sure how they would function."

They worked. Palmer shot rounds of 69, 68, 69 and 70 for 276, and achieved the following results:

He led all the way.

He had the second lowest total in the 31-year history of the Masters.

He had the second largest victory margin, six strokes. Defending champion Jack Nicklaus was second at 282, along with touring pro Dave Marr.

He didn't three putt a green until the 10th hole of the final round, when the issue had already been decided.

He won $20,000 in prize money, and struck what should amount to a million dollar blow for Arnold Palmer Enterprises, which manufacture almost everything but baby food and caskets.

And he struck the biggest blow to cigarette smoking since they locked Sir Walter Raleigh up in the Tower of London.

Palmer quit smoking on Jan. 27, and his resultant struggles were almost as public as the courtship of Elizabeth Taylor.

"I had a block about quitting. It seemed to affect my play around the greens. Now I've licked that," Palmer said.

Palmer opened play Sunday with a five - stroke lead over young Australian pro Bruce Devlin, and six over Marr.

Nicklaus, the big Ohioan who won two of the four big titles last year just missed a third, had never got started in this tournament and was nine strokes back, after rounds of 71, 73 and 71.

Young Jack, the main threat to Arnie's throne, ripped off a final round 67, including a drive on the 15th hole that must have carried 350 yards.

It wasn't enough, of course, as Palmer stroked steadily to his 70.

Young Marr, who played a round he called "not very good, but interesting," scratched to within three strokes of Palmer at No. 10, but he dunked his tee shot into the water at the short 12th, and had to make a 25-foot twisting putt on the last hole to tie Nicklaus for second.

The putt was worth $2,000 to Marr, who would have collected only $8,000 for third if he had missed.

Righthander Johnson Will Hurl Opening Pitch At Capital Today

By W. B. RAGSDALE Jr.
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, an old hand at making a pitch for votes, makes a new kind of pitch today—one opening up the 1964 American League baseball season.

A tall right-hander who describes himself as "an old first baseman," Johnson has predicted he will handle the job creditably.

After the ceremonial toss, Los Angeles and Washington, a pair of tailenders hoping for better things, will play the first game of the season.

The Review Sports
MONDAY, APRIL 13, 1964 PAGE 17

A sellout crowd of 45,000 is expected at D.C. Stadium under variably cloudy skies, in mild weather with temperatures reaching up near 70 degrees. There is a chance of occasional showers late in the day.

The presidential pitch is an ancient ritual, dating back more than a half century. Johnson is the 10th president to honor the tradition.

In keeping with the tradition, the opener in Washington is a day ahead of the rest of the American League.

Ken McBride of Los Angeles, a right-hander, and Washington left-hander Claude Osteen will take up the pitching chores where Johnson leaves off.

Best known of the new faces in the Senators' line-up today will be Bill Skowron, former New York Yankee first baseman obtained from the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Angels also will have a new first baseman, Joe Adcock, who came to Los Angeles along with pitcher Barry Latman in a deal that sent power hitter Leon Wagner to Cleveland.

4th Title For Midland Entry

Gengarella's Repeat As Jr. Tourney Champions, Tops Eason's In Finals

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

Gengarella's of Midland put their fourth Junior Tournament championship trophy away today after capturing the 1964 title with an 85-58 victory over Eason Insurance which proved to be the "Cinderella" team of the tournament.

It was a repeat for Gengarella's which walked off with last year's championship by easily defeating Gip's All-Stars.

A crowd of some 450 watched Gengarella's move to the head of the class in the 17th annual tourney sponsored by the Blue and White Nonpareil Club.

—:—

THE FOURTH championship since 1957 wasn't too hard to notch for the Lou Gengarella entry. The championship squad was composed of Midland High School plus one of the finest performers seen at the juniour tournament in Larry Davidson of Akron Central plus a couple of cagers from Aliquippa High.

★ ★ ★

Davidson wound up as the most valuable player and the 6-2 whiz resembled Weirton's Ron Williams with his all-around play. In high school, Davidson was a third team All - Ohio choice. He scored 25 points in the semi-final game and led the champs in the final with 19.

—:—

GENGARELLA'S had little trouble scooting into the finals by defeating Gip's of Pittsburgh, 100-66.

Eason's, which became the surprise of the tournament, going all the way to the championship game with local talent, jumped into the finals with a 71-66 victory over the Boston Dancers, upset kings of the tournament.

Boston's had pulled the big surprise on Friday night by knocking off pre-tourney favorite Uniontown High.

GENGARELLA'S didn't receive any dangerous threat from Eason's in the final game. The Midland entry took a 21-13 first quarter lead and was on top 41-25 at halftime and rode into the final eight minutes on a 63-39 margin.

Davidson led the way with his deadly jump shots and uncanny work around the boards. Coach Frank Chan's classy outfit showed five starters in the double figures.

Behind Davidson were Ron Brown with 15, Sim Hill 14, Tom Sakal 11 and Norm Vanlier 10.

—:—

WHILE Davidson was the MVP, Hill, the 6-6 all - stater who led Midland to the WPIAL finals this season played a "Bill Russell" defensive game, blocking one shot after another then sweeping the board clear with his rebounding.

If there had been two MVP awards, Hill would have deserved the other.

—:—

OAK GLEN'S Sam Simmons, who played a steady tournament and was high point man of the event, scored 16 points in the final while Randy (Hooks) Stover added 16. Bob Forzano, the big gun in the semi-final game for Eason's added 10.

In the semi-final battle, Gengarella's raced to a 45-28 halftime lead and Gip's never got back in the game. Davidson poured in 25 points while Brown added 21 and Hill 19 as Gengarella's reached the century point mark. Gregory Howard the 6-7 sophomore from 5th Ave. High, paced Gip's with 19.

Forzano, hitting on long one handers, and Fred Holden of Cardinal Mooney paced Eason's to its semi-final victory with 20 points each while Simmons added 14 in this one.

All Pittsburgh Archie McGill of Schenley High tallied 22 points for the Boston Dancers.

Young Jack, the main threat to Arnie's throne, ripped off a final round 67, including a drive on the 15th hole that must have carried 350 yards.

It wasn't enough, of course, as Palmer stroked steadily to his 70.

Young Marr, who played a round he called "not very good, but interesting," scratched to within three strokes of Palmer at No. 10, but he dunked his tee shot into the water at the short 12th, and had to make a 25-foot twisting putt on the last hole to tie Nicklaus for second.

The putt was worth $2,000 to Marr, who would have collected only $8,000 for third if he had missed.

Righthander Johnson Will Hurl Opening Pitch At Capital Today

By W. B. RAGSDALE Jr.
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, an old hand at making a pitch for votes, makes a new kind of pitch today—one opening up the 1964 American League baseball season.

A tall right-hander who describes himself as "an old first baseman," Johnson has predicted he will handle the job creditably.

After the ceremonial toss, Los Angeles and Washington, a pair of tailenders hoping for better things, will play the first game of the season.

The Review Sports
MONDAY, APRIL 13, 1964 PAGE 17

A sellout crowd of 45,000 is expected at D.C. Stadium under variably cloudy skies, in mild weather with temperatures reaching up near 70 degrees. There is a chance of occasional showers late in the day.

The presidential pitch is an ancient ritual, dating back more than a half century. Johnson is the 10th president to honor the tradition.

In keeping with the tradition, the opener in Washington is a day ahead of the rest of the American League.

Ken McBride of Los Angeles, a right-hander, and Washington left-hander Claude Osteen will take up the pitching chores where Johnson leaves off.

Best known of the new faces in the Senators' line-up today will be Bill Skowron, former New York Yankee first baseman obtained from the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Angels also will have a new first baseman, Joe Adcock, who came to Los Angeles along with pitcher Barry Latman in a deal that sent power hitter Leon Wagner to Cleveland.

4th Title For Midland Entry

Gengarella's Repeat As Jr. Tourney Champions, Tops Eason's In Finals

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

Gengarella's of Midland put their fourth Junior Tournament championship trophy away today after capturing the 1964 title with an 85-58 victory over Eason Insurance which proved to be the "Cinderella" team of the tournament.

It was a repeat for Gengarella's which walked off with last year's championship by easily defeating Gip's All-Stars.

A crowd of some 450 watched Gengarella's move to the head of the class in the 17th annual tourney sponsored by the Blue and White Nonpareil Club.

—:—

THE FOURTH championship since 1957 wasn't too hard to notch for the Lou Gengarella entry. The championship squad was composed of Midland High School plus one of the finest performers seen at the juniour tournament in Larry Davidson of Akron Central plus a couple of cagers from Aliquippa High.

Davidson Named MVP In 17th Junior Event

Larry Davidson of Akron Central, who helped Gengarella's to a fourth Junior Tournament title, was named the most valuable player of the 1964 tournament.

Awards were presented after the championship game Saturday by Ted Burke, president of the Blue and White Nonpareil Club.

Davidson, in three games, scored 66 points. He was a third team All-Ohio choice at Akron.

Sam Simmons of Eason's was high point man of the tourney with 71 for four games while the foul shooting trophy went to Ron Brown of Gengarella's showing the best percentage of 13 out of 19 free throws.

Davidson led a 10-man all-tourney team. From Gengarella's were Sim Hill and Norman Vanlier while Eason's placed Bob Forzano, Fred Holden and Simmons while Boston's showed Ken Durrett and Archie McGill. Gregory Howard was the lone performer from Gip's to be named on the all - tournament outfit.

Davidson wound up as the most valuable player and the 6-2 whiz resembled Weirton's Ron Williams with his all-around play. In high school, Davidson was a third team All - Ohio choice. He scored 25 points in the semi-final game and led the champs in the final with 19.

—:—

GENGARELLA'S had little trouble scooting into the finals by defeating Gip's of Pittsburgh, 100-66.

Eason's, which became the surprise of the tournament, going all the way to the championship game with local talent, jumped into the finals with a 71-66 victory over the Boston Dancers, upset kings of the tournament.

Boston's had pulled the big surprise on Friday night by knocking off pre-tourney favorite Uniontown High.

GENGARELLA'S didn't receive any dangerous threat from Eason's in the final game. The Midland entry took a 21-13 first quarter lead and was on top 41-25 at halftime and rode into the final eight minutes on a 63-39 margin.

Davidson led the way with his deadly jump shots and uncanny work around the boards. Coach Frank Chan's classy outfit showed five starters in the double figures.

Behind Davidson were Ron Brown with 15, Sim Hill 14, Tom Sakal 11 and Norm Vanlier 10.

—:—

WHILE Davidson was the MVP, Hill, the 6-6 all - stater who led Midland to the WPIAL finals this season played a "Bill Russell" defensive game, blocking one shot after another then sweeping the board clear with his rebounding.

If there had been two MVP awards, Hill would have deserved the other.

—:—

OAK GLEN'S Sam Simmons, who played a steady tournament and was high point man of the event, scored 16 points in the final while Randy (Hooks) Stover added 16. Bob Forzano, the big gun in the semi-final game for Eason's added 10.

In the semi-final battle, Gengarella's raced to a 45-28 halftime lead and Gip's never got back in the game. Davidson poured in 25 points while Brown added 21 and Hill 19 as Gengarella's reached the century point mark. Gregory Howard the 6-7 sophomore from 5th Ave. High, paced Gip's with 19.

Forzano, hitting on long one handers, and Fred Holden of Cardinal Mooney paced Eason's to its semi-final victory with 20 points each while Simmons added 14 in this one.

All Pittsburgh Archie McGill of Schenley High tallied 22 points for the Boston Dancers.

Beaver Local's track checked in with its first victory of the season Friday with a 75-38 win over Leetonia.

Roger Diddle captured three firsts to pace the Beavers which won nine of the 13 events.

Diddle won the 100 in 10.9, took the 220 in 24.8 and leaped 17-7½ in the broad jump.

Warren Bradley won both hurdle events by clearing the highs in 17.8 and the lows in 23.7.

Diddle also anchored the winning 880-yard relay team which consisted of McLaughlin, Roberts and Smith.

Roberts won the 440-yard dash in 63.5 while Jim McLaughlin took the pole vault by clearing the bar at 9-6. Don Goodman finished first in mile in 5:27.

Beaver Local swept three events including the 440, mile and low hurdles.

West Branch will visit Beaver Local Tuesday.

Tomasovich Stops Bears On No-Hitter

Big Ted Tomasovich uncorked a no-hitter as Weirton topped Oak Glen, 11-1, Friday at Weirton.

Oak Glen scored one unearned run in the first inning but from then on it was all Tomasovich who didn't allow the Golden Bears a hit.

Weirton tallied two runs in the first inning to take the lead for good, added four in the second, two more in the third and fifth frames and one in the sixth.

Weirton collected eight hits and each team committed four errors.

Bill Wright started for Oak Glen and was checked with the loss. He was relieved by Tom McGowan in the fourth.

Dodgers 6-5, Yanks 2-5 To Win Pennants

NEW YORK (AP) — A new baseball season opens today with new hopes, new faces, new managers, a new stadium and a new President throwing out the first ball. But the general forecast is the same—the Los Angeles Dodgers and New York Yankees to meet in the World Series.

The professional odds-makers have installed the Dodgers a 6-5 favorite to win the National League pennant. They have made the Yankees an overwhelming 2-5 choice to walk off with the American League championship.

Leading challengers to the Dodgers are San Francisco, St. Louis, Cincinnati, and Milwaukee in that order. Nobody expects any club to seriously challenge the Yankees but those considered to have an outside chance include Minnesota, Chicago, Detroit and Baltimore.

The New York Mets will end the 1964 baseball season with three games in St. Louis, Oct. 2, 3 and 4.

Dodgers 6-5, Yanks 2-5 To Win Pennants

NEW YORK (AP) — A new baseball season opens today with new hopes, new faces, new managers, a new stadium and a new President throwing out the first ball. But the general forecast is the same—the Los Angeles Dodgers and New York Yankees to meet in the World Series.

The professional odds-makers have installed the Dodgers a 6-5 favorite to win the National League pennant. They have made the Yankees an overwhelming 2-5 choice to walk off with the American League championship.

Leading challengers to the Dodgers are San Francisco, St. Louis, Cincinnati, and Milwaukee in that order. Nobody expects any club to seriously challenge the Yankees but those considered to have an outside chance include Minnesota, Chicago, Detroit and Baltimore.

The New York Mets will end the 1964 baseball season with three games in St. Louis, Oct. 2, 3 and 4.

Plenty Of Tickets For Pirate Opener

PITTSBURGH — The Pittsburgh Pirates announced today that plenty of tickets remain for the Pirate opener with the Chicago Cubs Tuesday at Forbes Field.

They are available at Window 100 Forbes Field and at downtown Pirate ticket office in the G. C. Murphy Store at 220 Fifth Ave. Boxes are $3 and reserved seats $2.50. General admission is $1.50 and bleacher tickets $1.

The Pirates also play the Cubs Wednesday, in the first night game of the 1964 season.

Homemaker Returns From Oblivion

To all overweight women who feel trapped in fat, today's heartening story is especially for you. A homemaker who turned defeat into resounding victory writes: "I've come back from oblivion."

Ida Jean Kain

In the fall of 1957 our homemaker was motivated to try to reduce "because the neighborhood kids were telling my kids their mother was 'a big fat slob!' " She managed to get down from 210 to 160 pounds. Discouraged when she hit a weight plateau, she slipped back into her overeating pattern, and her weight escalated again to 210.

—:—

WHEN SHE FACED what had happened, a little over a year ago, she "gathered herself together" and this time determined to reach her goal. On last January 15th this column told her success story up to that point. Letters flooded in urging this dieter to tell all her reducing secrets. She has done just that. Her letter is dated "March 4 — Goal Reached!"

"What better day to sit down and answer your letter than the day I reached my goal? One hundred twenty-five pounds this morning!! And, as I sit here in my size 12 stretch pants, I couldn't be happier.

"You asked me to write you all the tricks, techniques, backbone stiffeners, mental gymnastics, joys, sorrows, up and downs I used and experienced these past 11 months. That is a big order. For if there are about 335 days in 11 months, then I surely used 335 different tricks, techniques and types of mental gymnastics.

"First of all, I went out and bought myself a guaranteed accurate scale. I set the indicator on zero. . .exactly. . .no cheating. And I recorded my weight honestly as 210. Then I decided on my goal — 125 pounds. That meant I had to lose 85 pounds.

—:—

"THAT LARGE an amount to have to lose is enough to discourage anyone before she even starts, so this is what I did: I went into the bathroom, locked the door, looked in the mirror and talked out loud myself, just as if I were talking to another person. Aren't we all a little bit better at telling someone else what to do than we are telling ourselves? So I made out like that big fat gal in the mirror was someone else, and I really told her a thing or two. I said: 'Now look, forget about the 85 pounds! Take it in 10 pound jumps. You can surely lose 10 pounds without too much suffering, can't you?' She said: 'Well sure, I guess anybody can lose just 10 pounds!' I said: 'Okay! That's a start. Lose 10 pounds, and once you've lost it, make up your mind that you'll never put that 10 pounds back on. . . even if you don't ever lose any more, you'll never add that 10 pounds again.! So, that's the way "we" started."

Tomorrow: The fascinating details.

2 Unhurt In Crash

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) —Two servicemen escaped unhurt last night when their light Army plane crashed on a routine training flight from Middletown, Ohio, to Ft. Rucker, Ala. They were 1st Lt. Mark Daley of Middletown and 1st Lt. Charles L. Gilbert of Victor, N. Y.

Contractors Join President's Cost Reduction Move

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

COST REDUCTION: More than 1,200 major defense contractors have enlisted so far in the Johnson administration's cost reduction war, it was disclosed today.

There have been that many favorable replies from letters sent to 7,500 big contractors last December by President Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

A little-noticed Pentagon progress report circulated recently said:

"Indications are that industry's cost reduction efforts will provide the nation with a multimillion-dollar add-on to the Department of Defense's own $4 billion cost reduction undertaking."

SECURITY: A report that prowlers were in the basement of St. Mark's Episcopal church caused Secret Service agents and Washington police to conduct a thorough search Sunday morning before President Johnson and his family arrived for services.

Police found two 17-year-olds who had wandered away from a service for deaf mutes at St. Barnabas chapel in the church basement.

The President was accompanied to the services by Mrs. Johnson, their daughter Lynda Bird, and Secretary of Defense and Mrs. Robert S. McNamara.

Winston Field Resigns As Rhodesia Premier

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP)—Winston Field resigned today as prime minister of Southern Rhodesia, and British Gov. Sir Humphrey Gibbs named Treasury Minister Ian Smith to succeed him.

Both Smith and Field are members of the conservative Rhodesian Front party, which holds 35 of the 65 seats in the legislature and is pledged to maintain the white minority's rule of the self-governing British territory.

Field, in office since December 1962, lost his party's support because its right wing considered him too moderate. Political circles look for tougher government policies and possibly a declaration of independence from Britain.

Nehru Urged To Quit As Minister In India

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Charging the Indian government is weak and paralyzed, opposition political groups today called on ailing Prime Minister Nehru to resign.

Delhi state units of the Socialist and Praja Socialist parties, plus several smaller opposition factions, warned they will open "agitation" in the capital unless Nehru quits by Aug. 15.

Austrian Figure Dies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Edgar Leo Prochnik, 85, Austria's minister to the United States for many years until Hitler's Anschluss in 1938, died at his home Sunday after a brief illness. After Germany absorbed Austria, Prochnik was a lecturer in diplomatic history at Georgetown University until he retired in 1960.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Homemaker Returns From Oblivion

To all overweight women who feel trapped in fat, today's heartening story is especially for you. A homemaker who turned defeat into resounding victory writes: "I've come back from oblivion."

Ida Jean Kain

In the fall of 1957 our homemaker was motivated to try to reduce "because the neighborhood kids were telling my kids their mother was 'a big fat slob!' " She managed to get down from 210 to 160 pounds. Discouraged when she hit a weight plateau, she slipped back into her overeating pattern, and her weight escalated again to 210.

—:—

WHEN SHE FACED what had happened, a little over a year ago, she "gathered herself together" and this time determined to reach her goal. On last January 15th this column told her success story up to that point. Letters flooded in urging this dieter to tell all her reducing secrets. She has done just that. Her letter is dated "March 4 — Goal Reached!"

"What better day to sit down and answer your letter than the day I reached my goal? One hundred twenty-five pounds this morning!! And, as I sit here in my size 12 stretch pants, I couldn't be happier.

"You asked me to write you all the tricks, techniques, backbone stiffeners, mental gymnastics, joys, sorrows, up and downs I used and experienced these past 11 months. That is a big order. For if there are about 335 days in 11 months, then I surely used 335 different tricks, techniques and types of mental gymnastics.

"First of all, I went out and bought myself a guaranteed accurate scale. I set the indicator on zero. . .exactly. . .no cheating. And I recorded my weight honestly as 210. Then I decided on my goal — 125 pounds. That meant I had to lose 85 pounds.

—:—

"THAT LARGE an amount to have to lose is enough to discourage anyone before she even starts, so this is what I did: I went into the bathroom, locked the door, looked in the mirror and talked out loud myself, just as if I were talking to another person. Aren't we all a little bit better at telling someone else what to do than we are telling ourselves? So I made out like that big fat gal in the mirror was someone else, and I really told her a thing or two. I said: 'Now look, forget about the 85 pounds! Take it in 10 pound jumps. You can surely lose 10 pounds without too much suffering, can't you?' She said: 'Well sure, I guess anybody can lose just 10 pounds!' I said: 'Okay! That's a start. Lose 10 pounds, and once you've lost it, make up your mind that you'll never put that 10 pounds back on. . . even if you don't ever lose any more, you'll never add that 10 pounds again.! So, that's the way "we" started."

Tomorrow: The fascinating details.

Contractors Join President's Cost Reduction Move

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

COST REDUCTION: More than 1,200 major defense contractors have enlisted so far in the Johnson administration's cost reduction war, it was disclosed today.

There have been that many favorable replies from letters sent to 7,500 big contractors last December by President Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

A little-noticed Pentagon progress report circulated recently said:

"Indications are that industry's cost reduction efforts will provide the nation with a multi-million-dollar add-on to the Department of Defense's own $4 billion cost reduction undertaking."

SECURITY: A report that prowlers were in the basement of St. Mark's Episcopal church caused Secret Service agents and Washington police to conduct a thorough search Sunday morning before President Johnson and his family arrived for services.

Police found two 17-year-olds who had wandered away from a service for deaf mutes at St. Barnabas chapel in the church basement.

The President was accompanied to the services by Mrs. Johnson, their daughter Lynda Bird, and Secretary of Defense and Mrs. Robert S. McNamara.

Winston Field Resigns As Rhodesia Premier

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP)—Winston Field resigned today as prime minister of Southern Rhodesia, and British Gov. Sir Humphrey Gibbs named Treasury Minister Ian Smith to succeed him.

Both Smith and Field are members of the conservative Rhodesian Front party, which holds 35 of the 65 seats in the legislature and is pledged to maintain the white minority's rule of the self-governing British territory.

Field, in office since December 1962, lost his party's support because its right wing considered him too moderate. Political circles look for tougher government policies and possibly a declaration of independence from Britain.

Nehru Urged To Quit As Minister In India

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Charging the Indian government is weak and paralyzed, opposition political groups today called on ailing Prime Minister Nehru to resign.

Delhi state units of the Socialist and Praja Socialist parties, plus several smaller opposition factions, warned they will open "agitation" in the capital unless Nehru quits by Aug. 15.

Austrian Figure Dies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Edgar Leo Prochnik, 85, Austria's minister to the United States for many years until Hitler's Anschluss in 1938, died at his home Sunday after a brief illness. After Germany absorbed Austria, Prochnik was a lecturer in diplomatic history at Georgetown University until he retired in 1960.

OFF THE RECORD

"There goes six months of clean living down the drain."

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. What can I do when perspiration odor still clings to washable materials after they have been laundered?

A. Soak for an hour or more in warm water containing three or four tablespoons of salt for each quart of water. Or, sponge the stained parts with warm water containing a little vinegar, apply powdered pepsin, and work into the cloth. Let stand for several hours, keeping the spot moist, then brush off the pepsin, and rinse by sponging with clear, warm water.

Q. How can I prevent nylon cord or twine from fraying at a cut end?

A. By heating the end over a small flame. Nylon will melt and the strands will bond into a solid unit. Knots can be kept from working loose by this same treatment.

Q. How can I 'rust-proof' new tinware?

A. By rubbing its surface with lard, and then thoroughly heating the tinware in the oven before using.

Q. What is a good compound to use for stripping old wallpaper off the walls?

A. Brush on the paper a solution of paste (one cup flour and water) and water (three gallons). This paste prevents the moisture from evaporating too quickly, so that you'll have more time for peeling and scraping off the old paper.

Q. How can I drill a hole into glass?

A. Use a regular steel drill, and keep the point of contact saturated with camphorated oil or turpentine. The ease with which this is done will surprise you. Be very careful, though! Don't exert too much pressure.

Q. How can I remove hardened paint spatters from window glass?

A. Hot vinegar will usually work better and faster than scraping with a razor blade.

Junior Editors Quiz on CIRCUSES

QUESTION: Who began the circus?

ANSWER: Although entertainers such as clowns, acrobats and jugglers have performed for people from the earliest times, it was the Romans who put on large public exhibitions in buildings and tracks called circuses. There is a tradition that Romulus, one of the founders of Rome, produced the first circus. The Latin word "circus" means a race rather than a show, and in these races the contestants were usually mounted on chariots. "Circus" came from "circle" since the riders raced around a circular or oval ring.

After Rome, in the days of feudalism, strolling groups of actors and jugglers traveled between the castles and towns, and there were large fairs where such entertainers would congregate. In 1768 the Englishman, Phillip Astley, organized the first modern circus, beginning with trick riding exhibitions. The circus came to America about 1792, and while George Washington was president, he attended a performance of Rickett's Circus. When Phineas T. Barnum bought the great elephant Jumbo he gave the modern circus idea its start, and it developed rapidly into the wonderful entertainment spectacle we have with us today.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Color our circus picture. The big elephant should be gray, but you could put bright orange on the ground and gay colors on the flags and other parts of the picture.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Folks: So many of you have asked if I could get the original recipe for the famous U. S. Senate Restaurant bean soup, and also the recipe for the soup served in the U. S. House of Representatives.

Well, I went to the Senate and ordered their soup for 25 cents a bowl. It was delicious. I then went to the House and tried their soup. Just as delicious but with a slight difference.

United States Sen. Daniel B. Brewster, D - Md., was good enough to get both recipes for us. Now wasn't that sweet of him?

The story goes that in 1904 Speaker of the House, Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois, came into the House restaurant and ordered bean soup.

Bean soup had been omitted from the menu that day, because it was particularly humid and hot in Washington.

"Thunderation, I had my mouth set for bean soup," he roared, "and from now on, hot or cold, rain, snow or shine, I want it on the menu every day."

And so it has been — bean soup on the menu every day since.

Now, we cannot find these recipes in any cook book, so be sure to clip them out so you will have them handy. We do not keep back copies of columns.

Here 'tis:

SENATE BEAN SOUP

Take 2 pounds of small Navy Pea Beans, wash, and run through hot water until beans are white again.

Put on the fire with four quarts of hot water. Then take 1½ pounds of smoked ham hocks, boil slowly approximately three hours in covered pot.

Braise one onion chopped in a little butter, and, when light brown, put in bean soup. Season with salt and pepper, then serve.

Do not add salt until ready to serve. (Eight persons.)

HOUSE BEAN SOUP

Take 2 lb. No. 1 white Michigan beans.

Cover with cold water and soak overnight.

Drain and re - cover with water.

Add a smoke ham hock and simmer slowly for about 4 hours until beans are cooked tender. Then add salt and pepper to suit taste.

Just before serving, bruise beans with large spoon or ladle, enough to cloud. (Serves about 6 persons.)

And our thanks to Sen. Daniel B. Brewster for his kindness in helping us housewives cook Capitol Hill's famous bean soup.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I would like to tell mothers whose children wear sterling silver chains around their necks ... when the child is taking a bath, if the mother will drop the sterling chain into a washbowl with a little hot water and some detergent and let it soak until the child gets through with the bath, then just lift out the chain, rinse under the faucet and dry ...it will shine like new again.

By using this method you will find no more green or black marks on the children's necks.

Do this once a week.

GRANDMOTHER OF "SIX AND ONE-HALF."

-:-

Looks like you are going to be a grandmother again, eh? Congratulations!

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I live in a hard water area and the build-up of lime in vessels used for heating water is terrific. Of course, vinegar will take it out but my Scotch soul used to rebel because I had to use it so often ...

Then I found that I can save the vinegar and use it over and over and over again! I don't know how long it will last but I have been using the same pint for three months and it's still going strong.

GEORGIANA.

DEAR HELOISE: Have you ever tried those plastic bags which come from the cleaners for packing items for mailing? They are the greatest. They weigh so little that your postage does not run up. Try crushing these into boxes to prevent rattling.

Antioch College Offers Graduate Studies Program

YELLOW SPRINGS, Ohio (AP)—Antioch College will conduct an experimental program of graduate study for teachers of social studies this summer at a newly acquired satellite campus in Putney, Vt.

The program will lead to a degree of Master of Arts Teaching.

Morris Keeton, Antioch's dean of faculty, said the experiment, limited to 36 degree candidates the first year, will eliminate most lecture classes in favor of seminars, field experience and independent study.

The program will begin with one quarter at Antioch College in Yellow Springs for an independent study project, some courses and regular seminars. The second quarter will be spent on the Vermont campus in two social science seminars, one in education and in field trips. There will be practice teaching during the third quarter and additional seminars the fourth quarter, again in Vermont.

County Pupil, 13, Takes Diocesan Speller's Crown

EAST PALESTINE — Daniel Moore, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Moore, 564 N. Market St., won first place in the Youngstown Diocesan spelling contest Saturday afternoon by defeating 75 other parochial school entries at Cardinal Mooney High School in Youngstown.

Daniel won $50 by defeating Robert Kakish, an eighth grade pupil at St. Christine School in Youngstown. Daniel, an eighth grader at Our Lady of Lourdes School, won the title by spelling "tonsillectomy" and then "satirist."

Third place went to Joseph Frazzini, an eighth grader at St. Patrick's Oak Hill School, also in Youngstown.

About 500 teachers, parents and friends attended the annual spelldown, which required more than two hours and covered a list of 342 words. Prizes were presented by the Most Rev. James W. Malone, auxiliary bishop and diocesan director of education. Among the checkers was Sister M. Teresa, principal of Our Lady of Lourdes School.

And our thanks to Sen. Daniel B. Brewster for his kindness in helping us housewives cook Capitol Hill's famous bean soup.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I would like to tell mothers whose children who wear sterling silver chains around their necks ... when the child is taking a bath, if the mother will drop the sterling chain into a washbowl with a little hot water and some detergent and let it soak until the child gets through with the bath, then just lift out the chain, rinse under the faucet and dry ...it will shine like new again.

By using this method you will find no more green or black marks on the children's necks.

Do this once a week.

GRANDMOTHER OF "SIX AND ONE-HALF."

-:-

Looks like you are going to be a grandmother again, eh? Congratulations!

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I live in a hard water area and the build-up of lime in vessels used for heating water is terrific. Of course, vinegar will take it out but my Scotch soul used to rebel because I had to use it so often ...

Then I found that I can save the vinegar and use it over and over and over again! I don't know how long it will last but I have been using the same pint for three months and it's still going strong.

GEORGIANA.

DEAR HELOISE: Have you ever tried those plastic bags which come from the cleaners for packing items for mailing? They are the greatest. They weigh so little that your postage does not run up. Try crushing these into boxes to prevent rattling.

K.S.

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

Antioch College Offers Graduate Studies Program

YELLOW SPRINGS, Ohio (AP)—Antioch College will conduct an experimental program of graduate study for teachers of social studies this summer at a newly acquired satellite campus in Putney, Vt.

The program will lead to a degree of Master of Arts Teaching.

Morris Keeton, Antioch's dean of faculty, said the experiment, limited to 36 degree candidates the first year, will eliminate most lecture classes in favor of seminars, field experience and independent study.

The program will begin with one quarter at Antioch College in Yellow Springs for an independent study project, some courses and regular seminars. The second quarter will be spent on the Vermont campus in two social science seminars, one in education and in field trips. There will be practice teaching during the third quarter and additional seminars the fourth quarter, again in Vermont.

EAST PALESTINE — Daniel Moore, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Moore, 564 N. Market St., won first place in the Youngstown Diocesan spelling contest Saturday afternoon by defeating 75 other parochial school entries at Cardinal Mooney High School in Youngstown.

Third place went to Joseph Frazzini, an eighth grader at St. Patrick's Oak Hill School, also in Youngstown.

About 500 teachers, parents and friends attended the annual spelldown, which required more than two hours and covered a list of 342 words. Prizes were presented by the Most Rev. James W. Malone, auxiliary bishop and diocesan director of education. Among the checkers was Sister M. Teresa, principal of Our Lady of Lourdes School.
